

Trinity Manitoulin - April 12, 2pm (6070 King Street, Mindemoya)

Though you may have already heard this news.
We want to share a real invitation to an upcoming worship service.
And to join us in a celebration of thanksgiving and leave taking.

It has been a long journey, and this upcoming worship - the final one before the building comes under the ownership of the Central Manitoulin municipality - represents a turning point for TMUC.

After more than a century of worship in this place, the congregation of Trinity Manitoulin will be closing this chapter of its life together. Since 1918, this building has held prayer, song, grief, celebration, and the steady work of discipleship.
We will gather to give thanks for the grace and joy known within these walls, for the lives shaped here, and for all the moments when people have experienced God's presence with them in this place.

This service marks not an ending, but a transition, as we also give thanks for the openness and hospitality of our neighbours and friends at St. Francis of Assisi Anglican Church, where we look forward to continuing our life of worship, fellowship and service.

All are welcome to join in remembering, giving thanks, and marking this moment together.

Trinity Manitoulin - April 12, 2pm
(6070 King Street, Mindemoya)

Though you may have already heard this news.
We want to share a real invitation to an
upcoming worship service.
And to join us in a celebration of thanksgiving
and leave taking.

It has been a long journey, and this upcoming
worship - the final one before the building comes
under the ownership of the Central Manitoulin municipality - represents a turning point for TMUC.

After more than a century of worship in this place, the congregation of Trinity Manitoulin will be closing this chapter of its life together. Since 1918, this building has held prayer, song, grief,
celebration, and the steady work of discipleship.
We will gather to give thanks for the grace and joy
known within these walls, for the lives shaped
here, and for all the moments when people have experienced God's presence with them in this place.

This service marks not an ending, but a transition, as we also give thanks for the openness and hospitality of our neighbours and friends at St. Francis of Assisi Anglican Church, where we look forward to continuing our life of
worship, fellowship and service.

All are welcome to join in remembering, giving thanks, and marking this moment together.

