Homily Reflection by Rev. Cletus Imo

Reflexion de Homilia del Rev. Cletus Imo

CALLED TO BECOME SAINTS

Today, as we celebrate All Saints' Day, we celebrate the reality of heaven and the reward promised to all who remain faithful in serving God. We celebrate what the first reading calls "a great multitude that no one could count, from every nation, from all tribes and peoples and languages, standing before the throne and before the Lamb, robed in white, with palm branches in their hands" (Rev 7:9). This great multitude includes the saints we know by name: Agatha, Agnes, Francis, Anthony – and the saints known only to God: our parents and grandparents, friends, relatives, and countless Christians who lived quiet, faithful lives without ever being officially canonized. They were not people who had easy lives. Our reading says they "passed through the great tribulation." They struggled. They suffered. They fell. And they got up again.

In other words, the saints we celebrate were men and women like us. Where we stand now, they once stood; and where they stand now, we hope to be someday. In the eyes of many, they are dead. But in the eyes of faith they are more alive than ever, because the life they now enjoy can no longer be diminished by suffering, disease, sin or death (Rev. 14:13). That is why this feast reminds us not only of who the saints are, but who we are called to become.

But becoming a saint does not happen automatically. Jesus Himself warns us: "Not everyone who says to me, 'Lord, Lord,' will enter the kingdom of heaven, but only the one who does the will of my Father in heaven" (Mt 7:21). All the saints we honor today bore the scars of service. They walked the hard, narrow path of the Beatitudes to reach heavenly joy. The Beatitudes, as we know, propose a way of thinking that often runs counter to our natural inclinations and the urgings of our culture.

Every situation described in the Sermon on the Mount places the disciple in the middle of difficult choices. It demands a lifestyle the world often considers strange: – The poor in spirit who depend entirely on God. – The meek who choose gentleness over aggression. – The merciful who forgive even when forgiveness hurts. – The pure in heart who seek God with sincerity. – The peacemakers who bring calm where there is conflict. – The persecuted who suffer for doing what is right and stand firm even when it costs them.

To embrace the vision of the Beatitudes, we need a transformation of mind and heart—one that helps us see that peacemaking is not cowardice, that mercy is not foolishness, and that purity of heart and a non-violent response to threat are true marks of God's children. We need a transformation that convinces us that strength lies in weakness and honour in humility; that we receive by giving; and that we truly can do all things through the One who strengthens us (Phil 4:13).

Today, the Church reminds us that sainthood is not earned because one is a prayer warrior, a scholar, a priest, or a married person. Sainthood is the fruit of selflessness. It is the result of a life that is always becoming — through failures and forgiveness, through new beginnings and the quiet work of the Holy Spirit. To become a saint is to allow God to transform us from inactivity to activity, from hesitation to courage, from self-reliance to grace. It is trusting that God is still working, grace is still shaping, and hope is still rising.

LLAMADOS A SER SANTOS

Hoy, al celebrar la Solemnidad de Todos los Santos, celebramos la realidad del cielo y la recompensa prometida a todos aquellos que permanecen fieles en el servicio a Dios. Celebramos lo que la primera lectura denomina «una multitud inmensa, que nadie podría contar, de toda nación, raza, pueblo y lengua, de pie ante el trono y ante el Cordero, vestidos con vestiduras blancas y con palmas en sus manos» (Ap 7, 9). Esta gran multitud incluye a los santos que conocemos por su nombre —Águeda, Inés, Francisco, Antonio— y a aquellos santos conocidos solo por Dios: nuestros padres y abuelos, amigos, parientes e innumerables cristianos que vivieron vidas sencillas y fieles sin haber sido nunca canonizados oficialmente. No fueron personas que tuvieran una vida fácil; la lectura nos dice que «pasaron por la gran tribulación». Lucharon, sufrieron, cayeron... y volvieron a levantarse.

En otras palabras, los santos a quienes celebramos fueron hombres y mujeres como nosotros. Donde nosotros estamos ahora, ellos estuvieron en su momento; y donde ellos están ahora, esperamos estar nosotros algún día. A los ojos de muchos, están muertos. Pero, a los ojos de la fe, están más vivos que nunca, porque la vida de la que ahora gozan ya no puede verse restringida por el sufrimiento, la enfermedad, el pecado o la muerte (Ap 14, 13). Por eso, esta fiesta nos recuerda no solo quiénes son los santos, sino también en quiénes estamos llamados a convertirnos.

Pero llegar a ser santo no ocurre automáticamente. Jesús mismo nos advierte: «No todo el que me dice: "¡Señor, Señor!", entrará en el reino de los cielos, sino el que hace la voluntad de mi Padre que está en los cielos» (Mt 7, 21). Todos los santos a quienes honramos hoy llevaron las cicatrices del servicio. Recorrieron el camino difícil y estrecho de las Bienaventuranzas para alcanzar la alegría celestial. Las Bienaventuranzas, como sabemos, proponen una forma de pensar que, a menudo, va en contra de nuestras inclinaciones naturales y de las exigencias de nuestra cultura.

Cada situación descrita en el Sermón del Monte sitúa al discípulo ante decisiones difíciles. Exige un estilo de vida que, a menudo, el mundo considera extraño: los pobres en espíritu, que dependen totalmente de Dios; los mansos, que eligen la humildad frente a la agresividad; los misericordiosos, que perdonan incluso cuando perdonar duele; los de corazón puro, que buscan a Dios con sinceridad; los que trabajan por la paz, que llevan calma allí donde hay conflicto; y los perseguidos, que sufren por hacer lo correcto y se mantienen firmes, aun cuando ello signifique un costo.

Para acoger la visión de las Bienaventuranzas, necesitamos una transformación de la mente y del corazón: una que nos ayude a comprender que trabajar por la paz no es cobardía, que la misericordia no es insensatez, y que la pureza de corazón y una respuesta no violenta ante las amenazas son verdaderos distintivos de los hijos de Dios. Necesitamos una transformación que nos convenza de que la fortaleza reside en la debilidad y el honor en la humildad; de que recibimos al dar; y de que, verdaderamente, podemos hacer todas las cosas por medio de Aquel que nos fortalece (Flp 4,13).
