Boil Alert

A boil alert pot watcher is designed to monitor food or liquids while they are heating and alert the user when a pot is boiling or when it reaches a certain temperature. This provides an additional layer of safety and independence in the kitchen. For people with visual, hearing, cognitive, mobility, or other disabilities, a boil alert can help reduce the risk of spills, burns, overboiling, or unattended cooking by providing timely alerts. Overall, a boil alert pot watcher can promote accessibility, safety, and greater independence in the kitchen.
