

The prospect of putting a loved one in a nursing home is one of the most harrowing decisions someone can face.

You want your loved one to get the care they need, but it seems the options are all-too-often limited to large institutions or insufficient care at home. Residences by Regency is a much-needed and innovative alternative to such institutional placement for senior citizens. A quality of life approach, Residences by Regency enable seniors to age with dignity and respect in the communities they've known for their entire lives.

I've been there....

I created Regency Home Care because of my own personal experiences with my aging mother and the intense desire not to put her into a nursing home. Over the years we've been able to help hundreds of seniors age in the comfort of home, but we've also recognized that for some seniors traditional home care simply isn't enough. Residences by Regency was created to provide that extra support and supervision to ensure the aging process is filled with dignity and respect.

Our Commitment is to make a positive difference in the lives of the families we care for.

Dignity and Respect

We at Residences by Regency know how important the long-term care of a loved one is. Residences by Regency can relieve the burden of this situation for our clients by offering unparalleled care in the familiarity and comfort of an actual home.

Every Residences by Regency is a single-family home in an actual neighborhood. They are designed to blend into the fabric of the community – no signs out front and no secluded campus – and create an authentic living environment for its residents with cookies in the oven, dinners around a kitchen table, and meaningful relationships among the four seniors who live there.

Because Regency Home Care keeps a caregiver in the home at all times, the care ratio is 1:4, which is far better than that of the average nursing home and allows for excellent care for our residents.
