Workshop attendees will improve their ability to inspire followership, coworker retention, boost morale, and promote productivity at their clubs.

Henry DeLozier – Morning Keynote - 9:00 to Noon

Presentation Title: Investing in Leadership...Is there a return on leadership?

One can calculate the return on investment (ROI) of leadership development by comparing the costs of the program with the benefits it generates, such as increased productivity or reduced turnover, using a formula like $ROI = (\text{Net Profit} / \text{Cost of Investment}) * 100$.

Henry DeLozier is a Principal at GGA Partners, an international consulting firm based in Toronto.

He has helped high performers, new leaders, and managers to understand their personal leadership brand and identify which leadership opportunities align with their competencies.
