It is our desire that a family select a funeral service within their means and not be burdened with a financial hardship in cases of overspending. We will work diligently to personalize services within all budgets and encourage all our families to work with us with this goal in mind. Therefore, we do not extend credit.

Our Payment Policies

Prior to publishing service information or setting a service, payment must be secured through a verified and assignable insurance assignment or with cash, check, credit card payments or a pre-paid funeral plan with Crosier-Pearson Cleburne Funeral Home.

Convenience fee of 3% will be added to all credit card transactions/payments.

We will list Crowd Funding options for families choosing to enlist help from others online on their loved one's obituary page on our website to cover funeral services as well as those wishing to make payments online rather than in person. Although we do not add additional fees for this option, Stripes will assess a 3.5% fee on donations through Crowd Funding automatically to cover their financial funding. Any optional tips given through Crowd Funding are not paid to the funeral home and are optional for donors to provide to the web host for this service.

Fee of 4% of total assignment or minimum of $125 per insurance policy will be added to file for and/or take assignment for payment. We do not accept any policy within the contestable period of less than 24 months, beneficiary is not verifiable, or cause of death will be filed as with a "pending" status.

Families choosing to use insurance assignments for payment will need to keep in mind that insurance benefits can take up to 10 business days in special cases such a group policies to verify. In these cases, services will only be set and published after verification process is completed.

Preparing for your family's funeral arrangements...

Remember to eat before arriving at the funeral home as the arrangement process can take anywhere from 2-3 hours to complete, if not longer – depending on the time needed to make decisions and complete required paperwork.

You will be faced with numerous questions and decisions to make and it takes some time to finalize the arrangements.

Our staff is here to guide your family through that process, focusing on providing information for you to make the right choices for your family and how best to honor and celebrate your loved one.

Please ensure the decision makers in your family are present for this important planning meeting with us.

Items to bring with you...

- Clothing, including undergarments. Long sleeves and higher collared shirts are needed in special cases but often are preferable in other normal cases as well.
- Photo for the obituary
- Photo to help with make-up and hair styling
- Up to 40 photos for the Video tribute (slide show) if we are scanning actual photos or up to 100 in jpg format on a flash drive or to be uploaded via link sent from the funeral home for video tributes. We will make the video tribute from the photos submitted in the format that will play with the funeral home equipment. We discourage families from making their own for funeral home use as most often the family-made versions are not compatible to our system and cause un-necessary stress to families needing to re-make at the last moment. Please use family-made versions at your home or other gatherings after the service instead.
- Any insurance policies that you want filed (Please DO NOT call the insurance company or begin a death claim online. In most cases, the insurance companies will not deal with the funeral home once the family does either. When that occurs – we cannot take insurance as payment and this causes un-necessary burdens on the family.)
 - Group Insurance policies will require the place of business name and number as well as the contact person for HR and his/her direct number. The group policy number, insurance company and any other information that might be available either on the policy or certificate.
- Veteran discharge papers (DD214)
- Deceased's Social Security card or number at minimum
- Deceased's Birth Certificate if possible – date of birth, place of birth and both parents' names, including mother's maiden name are required for the death certificate
- Deceased's Marriage License if possible – date and place of marriage are often added to obituaries
- List of survivors and family members who have preceded your loved one in death for the obituary listing
- Any personalization items that you want displayed in the visitation room or for services. For example, if your loved one played games often, bring in the board games, dominoes or cards to display. Doing so, often lightens the atmosphere and makes visitors more apt to share stories with the family during visitation at the funeral home or services.

Things to think about...

- When and where you want the funeral to take place... Chapel, church, or graveside? Morning or afternoon?
- Cemetery if not already decided?
- Minister to officiate
- Music – choose from 1-3 songs for a church or chapel service. Live music or recorded CDs?
- Pallbearers for church or chapel service – 6 or 8 men/women who are able to lift
- Estimated number of people to sit together as a family for the service if in chapel or church
- Do you want the casket open or closed at the service? Traditionally in a chapel or most church services, depending on the church, we have the casket open as folks are coming in, then close it just before the service starts, and then re-open the casket at the conclusion of the service and pass the congregation by if the family chooses to have them view.
- We will be asking about several things for the death certificate vital stats. and to comprise the obituary for your family. You do not need to try to write the obituary but will be asked to edit, proof and make any desired changes to the one we will write for you.

Celebrating & Honoring the Life Lived...

Why are funerals important?

We have been having funerals since the beginning of time - WHY? - because they meet our needs after the loss of a loved one according to Dr. Alan Wolfelt. The funeral, service, celebration or gathering that your family designs to honor the loss of your loved one is unique to the life lived and important to beginning the healing process, allowing loved ones the opportunity to begin to work through grief.

Dr. Wolfelt shares that our healing journey begins with reality – reality that someone in our lives has died. Funerals help us to begin to acknowledge that fact. Through recall, we are able to remember that person and share our unique memories with others – creating a path for hope for the future (Wolfelt).

Supporting one another during loss is vital as well. Funerals, gatherings, celebrations and other services bring people together who care about one another to support and remember the one lost - allowing expression of inner thoughts and feelings to be heard (Wolfelt).

Funerals mark the significance of the life that was lived. They also help us find meaning and purpose in our continued living, even in the face of loss according to Dr. Alan Wolfelt.

Reality – Recall – Support – Expression – Meaning

All of these important purposes of funerals “ultimately help us embrace the wonder of life and death” – providing transcendence (Wolfelt). This is how we not only face but begin to move through the death of a loved one - so that grief does not overcome our lives after a loss.

It has been said that you cannot go around grief – you cannot skip over grief – and you cannot run from grief.

You can only face grief. Facing grief in a safe place, surrounded by loved ones, who are sharing and finding meaning as the life lived is celebrated is what funerals, gatherings and other services are all about. We encourage you to start your journey with this in mind – because grief is unavoidable and we will face it one way or another, any time we face the death of someone we love.

Planning a Funeral is Important

Dr. Alan Wolfelt and FDLIC share the importance of planning a funeral below:

As you plan for a funeral, know that what you are doing will have a lasting and profoundly important impact on the lives of those you love the most. A meaningful funeral experience brings a sense of hope and a feeling of gratitude for life, love and memories. Blending the significant elements together listed below help to reflect the life lived and allows loved ones to have their needs met through a meaningful ceremony, honoring the life lived. Generally speaking, the more elements incorporated into a funeral, service, celebration or gathering – the more meaningful it can be.

When people and ceremony come together, meaning emerges and healing begins to unfold (Wolfelt).

Elements of Planning a Funeral – Gathering – Service – Celebration:

Actions - Gathering – Symbols - Eulogy/Remembrance - Visitation/Reception - Music – Readings

Actions

Funerals give mourners the opportunity to do something with their thoughts and feelings – such as lighting a candle, placing flowers on the casket, or participating in the procession to the cemetery (Wolfelt/FDLIC).

Gathering

Visitations the night prior to a service or gatherings after the funeral gives mourners the opportunity to share memories, express what is on their minds and in their hearts, and support one another. Bonds are often strengthened, and mourners return home with a sense of community and love (Wolfelt/FDLIC).

Symbols

Objects such as displayed belongings of the person who died, crosses or other religious items, candles, and flowers give concrete form to our search for meaning in life and death (Wolfelt/FDLIC).

Eulogy / Remembrance

This tribute recalls and celebrates the life story of the person who died. It gives voice to our inner thoughts and feelings about this person and helps us begin to embrace the meaning of this unique life (Wolfelt/FDLIC).

Visitation / Reception

A gathering before the funeral is a time for mourners to greet one another. If the body is present, it is also a chance to acknowledge the reality of death and say final goodbyes (Wolfelt/FDLIC).

Music

Music that has personal meaning to you or the person who died expresses what words alone never say (Wolfelt/FDLIC).

Readings

Poems, spiritual or religious verses, and passages from meaningful texts offer words of comfort and support (Wolfelt/FDLIC).

Dr. Alan Wolfelt. Ph.D., is a respected author and educator on the topic of grief. He believes that meaningful funeral experiences help families and friends support one another, embrace their feelings, and embark on the journey to healing and transcendence (FDLIC).

At Crosier-Pearson Cleburne Funeral Home, we believe the same and are here to help plan the funeral, service, gathering or celebration that best fits your family's needs, wants and budget – all focusing on honoring and celebrating the life lived.

We are honored to have the opportunity to guide you and your family through this process, sharing insight – making suggestions – and providing you with the information to make the hard decisions you face today.
