As the season of spring continues, so too come longer days, hopes for new life, warmer weather, and reminders of God's promises of new life. This month, we move through the final days of Lent and to the events of Holy Week- from Palm Sunday to Maundy Thursday, Good Friday to Easter Vigil, and then the new life of Easter and the resurrection life. These are the central and high holy days of our faith, and we remember God's story of bringing new life and new creation even amid the most uncertain, anxious, and dark days. At the same time, this month also means the start of planting season, Earth Day, Arbor Day, and collectively is a perfect opportunity to remember the goodness of all of God's creation which God entrusts into our care. God is doing something new, cultivating new creation and new life, for me and for you, and for all of God's beloved.

Questions for Reflection:

- In what ways have you seen, witnessed, and experienced God cultivating creation?
- How might God be inviting you to join in and cultivate creation?
- What are two or three ways that you will cultivate creation this year?
