For that extra edge.

MANAGEMENT

An external view of management can often provide valuable insights into areas where it has been 'business as usual' for sometime - operations, organisational structure, review of management reporting and workforce planning.

Ron Browne, Managing Consultant at Extrapreneur Services adds invaluable external expertise, insight and knowledge gained over a wide spectrum of industries in a career spanning more than 40 years in business.

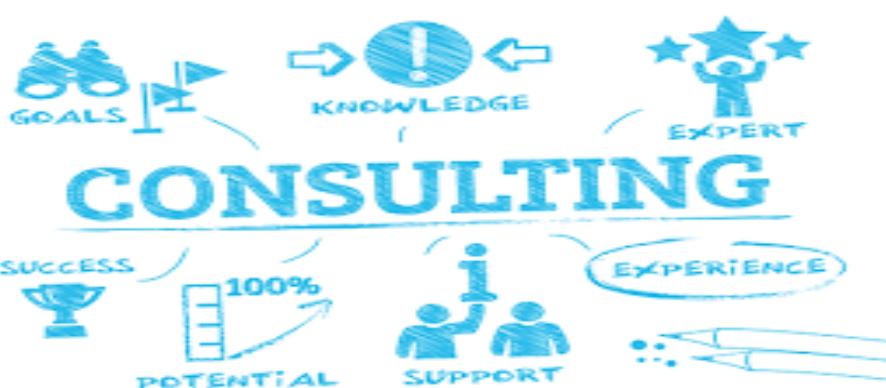

A fresh eye can often identify operational efficiencies that can streamline procedures, reduce costs, improve staff rosters and resourcing whilst creating a more productive and professional team. Even providing interim management for short or medium term to help hold the ship steady when required.

Venue Management Services

Many clubs often require a locum management service, for example when recruiting a new secretary manager, or when the manager/CEO is on extended leave, and the organisation may not have an individual on board who can provide the necessary leadership or management during these types of absences.

If you need someone you can trust, someone who can honestly and professionally provide contract management consultancy services, for the necessary period of time, Ron can step in and provide that steady hand on the wheel.

A few weeks or even a month or two, Ron can be available to keep a steady hand on the wheel until the management is returned to a suitable status quo. Rates by negotiation pending the term involved.
