Alone, a drop. Together, a surging sea.

Dear Mona Champions,

With excitement and a sense of pride, I am happy to share with you the results of your sustained support of Mona's mission in 2022. As you will see, together we supported the education and empowerment of 1,662,548 students—more than double our reach in 2021!

The engine of this incredible growth is the power released through our collective and united efforts in service to the common good. On one hand, this exponential growth is the fruit of Mona's 23 years of persistent effort in practicing our unique, cost effective and transformative approach to development for which we were applauded in 2022 as a trailblazer in a recent global forum.

This growth also reflects a major milestone achieved by six of our grassroots partners who have, over time, developed the capacity to collaborate with governments and others in their network to expand their reach and societal impact through existing institutional structures. Equally important is the growing shift in the hearts and minds of individuals, communities, and institutions who, influenced by our partners' proven programs, are promoting universal education, gender equality, moral development, and service to effect positive social change.

"With your support year after year, we have been able to create sustained impact. You are the heartbeat that keeps us going—we would never have gotten here without your ongoing support and long enduring love."

— Dr. Urvashi Sahni, Founder and CEO of Study Hall Educational Foundation, India

Relative to the immensity of the problems our world faces, the contributions of Mona Foundation as a single organization engaged in support of a finite number of partner organizations is negligible. Alone, we are just a drop. But as you will see from our collective 2022 results: Together, we are a surging sea, gathering momentum with each passing day to educate and empower more children to uplift and transform themselves, their families and their communities. We hope you enjoy reading this report knowing that your support makes our work possible.

On behalf of Board of Directors of Mona Foundation,

Mahnaz Javid
CEO and President

P.S. Please stay with us to help educate and empower more students this coming year. A giving envelope is enclosed for your use, or visit monafoundation.org to make a donation.

The State of Our World

Achieving gender equality is a global development priority and central to the twin goals of ending extreme poverty and boosting shared prosperity.¹

Two-thirds of the world's 773 million illiterate population are women.

120 million girls are out of school worldwide

Girls are 2.5 times more likely to be out of school than boys at the secondary level.

$1 invested in an additional year of schooling, particularly for girls, generates earnings and health benefits of $10 in low-income countries.²

1 World Bank March 2022, COUNT ME IN! World Bank Education Global Practice, Improving Education Outcomes for Girls and Young Women

2 The Education Commission 2022, The Learning Generation: Investing in Education for a Changing World

We measure progress in three areas: Program Outcomes, Student Outcomes, and Societal Outcomes

2022 Program and Student Outcomes:

Common indicators and results across all grassroots partners

of students directly educated & empowered ³ 1,662,548	# of grassroots partners 26	# of countries served 15
of schools served 10,672	% of girls enrolled 90.4%	# of teachers trained 8,627
of parents trained 72,076	# of service projects 809	# of additional people directly Served Through Outreach ⁴ 460,611

3 Includes students receiving structured educational curriculum both in person and online (unique users)

4 Outreach programs included training of community members on relevant community needs literacy, health, gender equality, importance of education of girls, or prevention of violence against women.

2022 Societal Outcomes:

Results across select grassroots partners in scaling their proven programs

5 Contributing organizations: Badi School (Panama), Study Hall Educational Foundation (India), MDC (Mongolia), Educational Initiatives (India and South Africa), FUNDAEC, (Colombia), Program for Children (Sierra Leone).

Societal Impact: How 6 Mona Partners Contributed to Our Reach in 2022

PANAMA Badi School + Ministry of Education

Badi School influenced the Ministry of Education to change the standard course on religion to Badi School's curriculum on Moral Education to be implemented in 3,400 schools reaching about 950,000 K-12 students.

SIERRA LEONE Programme for Children (PFC) + Ministry of Education + Community Leaders

PFC scaled access to high quality education to more students by coordinating with the Ministry of Education and Basic Science, other government agencies, and community and religious leaders.

INDIA Study Hall Educational Foundation (SHEF) + Uttar Pradesh Government + 40 NGOs

- SHEF Scaled the Aarohini girl's empowerment program to 746 residential government schools for girls, training 1,500 teachers, reaching 102,500 girls from disadvantage households.
- Engaged 40 non-governmental organizations (NGOs) in a coalition to mobilize and educate men and boys on becoming advocates for gender justice as part of SHEF's India 's Daughters' Campaign.
- Collaborated with state government to host Digital Study Hall online curriculum on its platform for use at 16 public schools, benefiting 2,550 students.

INDIA Educational Initiatives (EI) + 15 state governments + 3 partner organizations

With support from Mona and a consortium of funders, EI provided Mindspark adaptive learning software to over 200,000 students in 250 schools and 5,000 learning centers across 15 states. Trained over 1,000 teachers and engaged 28,000 parents in support of their children's education.

MONGOLIA Mongolia Development Center (MDC) + Ministry of Education

MDC Scaled its Hidden Gems early childhood curriculum to 29 state kindergartens, training 278 teachers, and reaching 4,478 children.

COLOMBIA FUNDAEC + 11 Local Governments + 15 NGOs

Through two programs, FUNDAEC enlisted the support of 11 local governments and 15 NGOs to train and mobilize 1,000 students and 23 teachers to work with small community farmers to enable food security, build capacity, and protect and preserve the environment.

Kali's Story

Kali was born in a tribal household in rural India. A girl, without means, and disabled by polio, she had three strikes against her before she was twelve. When she started her training at Barli, she was so shy that she could not say her own name. There she found her voice and learned to read and write, to farm organically and cook with solar cookers, and became certified as a tailor.

Upon graduation, she went back to her village to start her sewing shop. She then sponsored the education of eight children in her family, saved enough money to buy a red scooter so that she could get around, started a micro-lending group, and taught 12 other women how to start their own businesses. Over time, she saved enough money to buy a piece of land (the first female landowner in her village) and with the help of a few Mona friends, built a home.

Kali now employs five other young women, uses her home to teach other differently-abled girls how to sew, and is a respected community leader and female role model, bringing positive change to her entire village.

2022 Partner Organizations

In 2022 we supported the education and empowerment of 1,662,548 students through partner organizations in 15 countries.

Mona Foundation was founded in 1999 by a small group of people committed to social justice and resolved to making life better for all children through education, empowerment, and service to the community.

We believe access to education and gender equality are key to fighting poverty, hunger, inequality, and most other social and economic ills. We also believe change is only sustainable when the local community is the principal actor in defining, analyzing, and solving its own problems.

Mona's partner organizations serve marginalized communities around the world. The educational initiatives we support focus on academic excellence, fine arts, and character education to develop capable, ethical, and altruistic leaders who contribute to the betterment of their families, communities, and ultimately their nations.

ADCAM

Brazil

Nationally recognized for its efforts to promote the material and social well-being of the Amazonian people, ADCAM in Manaus, Brazil provides quality education based in universal moral principles. Mona supports two of its initiatives: School of the Future (Escola do Futuro), previously the Masrour School, serving children from pre-K through high school, and the Young Apprentice Program which promotes the successful entry of young people into the work force.

Forever Grateful

ADCAM graduate Sarah Larissa, age 18, credits the school for helping her become "a cheerful, friendly, affable, polite, and respectful person," adding that its ongoing support and the opportunity to interact with diverse people and cultures were paramount to her personal development. Sarah is now in ADCAM's Young Apprentice Program and pursuing her dream to become a lawyer. The program helped her find her first job which is providing her with great experience as well as funds for college.

Her advice: "Demonstrate who you are, be revolutionary, don't give up on your dreams, look beyond the barriers that blind you, speed up the walk, if possible, but don't skip the processes, they are necessary for learning."

Badi School

Panama

Serving a mostly indigenous population, Badi School is widely recognized for its outstanding K-12 academic, moral leadership, and arts programs. Its approach to integrating quality educational practices with universal moral principles has also transformed the surrounding area into a thriving community committed to the education of children and service to all. Badi graduates regularly receive full scholarships to the finest universities.

Empowering a Country

Badi School has collaborated with Panama's Ministry of Education over the years and developed a close relationship. Six years ago, Badi proposed to the Ministry that the standard course on Religion, which is taught in all schools, be changed to Moral Education. The proposal was accepted. Today, all of Panama's 3,100 public schools and 300 private schools are using Badi's moral education curriculum, reaching 950,000 elementary, middle and high school students. The school considers this to be their finest contribution to their country.

Barli Institute

India

Barli Institute for the Development of Rural Women is a portal for social change, using a forward-thinking curriculum to address complex, in-grained norms and help build a world where women and girls can thrive. Serving young women from the many villages around Indore, Barli offers a six-month residential training program in literacy, vocational skills, and community development to provide its students with the skills to start their own business and the confidence to become leaders in the transformation of their communities.

All 2022 graduates passed the national literacy exam and became certified as tailors. Nearly 60% opened their own shop while the rest restarted their education. Since most are from agricultural villages, they also introduced organic farming and tree planting to their areas.

Education is hope

"To be without education and skills is like being a bird without wings. You can see the sky and the endless opportunities, but you are not able to reach them. It makes you feel helpless. But education gives the power and the strength to transform our life and that of others. It makes us confident and self-reliant. It is like opening windows in a closed room and flooding it with light and fresh air. Our attitude changes and we become open to receiving confirmations and changing the course of our lives. Moreover, it feels like we receive in our hands a magic wand, whereby we can share this light with others and help in their transformation too. I am immensely grateful to the funding agencies who made my stay and learning in Barli Institute possible. I feel so happy, like a child who has finally learned to walk and now I will move on the path of life more assured and more aware."

Educational Initiatives

India and South Africa

Educational Initiatives aims to revolutionize how children learn. Working with governments, schools, and communities, it leverages cutting-edge educational assessments to deploy technology-based solutions so all children can learn with understanding. Mindspark, El's personalized adaptive learning software, benchmarks the initial learning level of each student and dynamically customizes lessons to match their level and rate of progress. El is widely recognized for its work, including by UNICEF, The World Bank, MacArthur Foundation, Dell Foundation, and USAID India.

Learning with understanding

"I love working on Mindspark because it's fun and it's improving my understanding of the work I'm doing in class. Mindspark asks me different questions and it challenges me, making me better, and improving my Mathematics. I believe it will improve my marks because it's been helping me understand the Mathematical concepts we are learning in class. Mindspark has already improved my Maths in many ways."

Emergence Foundation

Cameroon

Cameroon experienced many challenges in 2022 with major droughts followed by severe flooding in the northern region. Despite this, Emergence Foundation was able to continue providing the Preparation for Social Action (PSA) program to 605 participants. The program, equivalent to the first two years of high school, raises the capacity of students to become effective agents of change in their communities. Combining course work with social action and service, Emergence teaches students literacy, math, and science as well as improved agricultural practices to increase and diversify crops, address malnutrition, and better protect the environment.

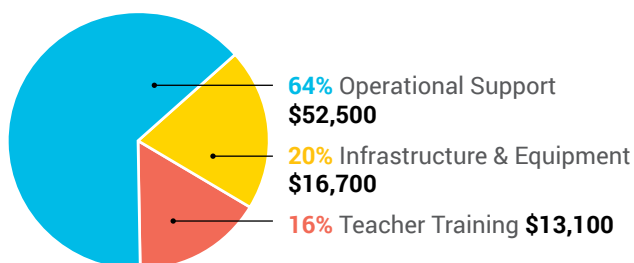

Planting and Persevering Together

A learning group of young adults in Gado Badzere is working hard to produce a variety of crops for their families and community. After studying the PSA course, "Planting crops and High-efficiency Diversified Plots," the students started plots near the health center. Their crops produced bountifully until the dry season came. Determined to grow food throughout the year, the students implemented the irrigation and mulching techniques they learned and traveled long distances for water. Inspired by their dedication, the local children also began to pitch in to make sure the plots will be successful.

The Foundation for the Application and Teaching of Science (FUNDAEC) is dedicated to building capacity in various regions so that people may carry out action/research and learning on the various processes that make up their social, economic, and cultural life. FUNDAEC's learning programs aim to transform daily practices to improve the well-being of the entire population. MONA supports two initiatives: Supporting Community Leaders, which supports high school graduates to strengthen capacities to contribute to the material and spiritual development of their communities, and Transforming the Environment, which trains and mobilizes teachers, students and parents to enable food security, build capacity as change agents, and protect and preserve the environment.

A dream fulfilled

Lesly's most cherished goal, after graduating high school and dedicating a year of service to her community, was to go to university and study education. The Supporting Community Leaders program (SCLP) enabled her to fulfill this dream and more. Her admission to the University of Cordoba brought great happiness to Lesly and her family even though it was difficult to pay for her tuition, housing, and board on their agricultural income. SCPL initially assisted with Lesly's tuition and later helped her start a handicraft business that could support her education and bring additional income to the family. Lesly shared:

"The support provided by the program to its participants is really very gratifying, not only for the economic support, but also for all the follow-up and knowledge that they offer us."

Today, Lesly is in her last year of college. She and her family have benefited and learned much from their new business producing and selling traditional hats. Others in the community have also benefited.

Hope Academy

Sierra Leone

A new Mona partner in 2022, Hope Academy for Girls is a formal six-year Junior and Senior Secondary School serving rural girls in the country's Western Area, many of whom are at risk of dropping out due to low grades, financial constraints, suspected abuse, or exploitation. Founded in 2017, the school provides quality and holistic education in a clean, spacious, and supportive environment to "engage, educate and empower." All of the school's first cohort of students passed the Basic Education Certificate Examination with top grades and will graduate high school next year.

Serving the community

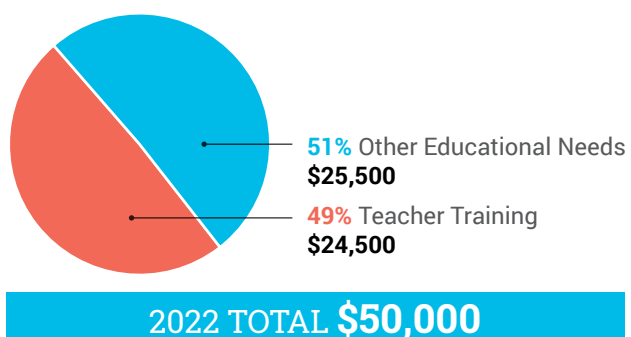

Service to the community is an important part of Hope Academy's holistic education. In 2022, students cultivated a lush botanical garden to provide local and exotic fruits to the people of York and neighboring villages. They also helped clean the beach and clear the grounds at a new resort in York that provides local jobs and supports entrepreneurial and development projects.

A new Mona partner in 2022, MAIA Impact School unlocks and maximizes the potential of young Maya women to lead transformational change and create a more equitable society. It is the first female, Indigenous-led secondary school in Central America, serving girls from 40 rural highland villages. MAIA is redefining the word “school” through a holistic educational model that gives equal emphasis to academics, culture and identity, socioemotional development, and family engagement. The students, who enter the school in Grade 7, are called “Girl Pioneers” because they are blazing a new trajectory towards prosperity and equal opportunity, despite being born into situations of quadruple discrimination as rural, poor, female, and Indigenous.

The Girl Effect

When one girl is empowered to make different choices that change her life, she starts a ripple effect that impacts her family, community, and country. That’s the Girl Effect. For example, one Girl Pioneer, Adela, created a Youth Impact Club as a service project to empower young Indigenous girls like herself who often found themselves without a voice.

“In sixth grade, the only dream I had was to study. I discovered little by little that I could dream of more possibilities. That’s when everything changed for me. It changed my way of thinking. And it changed the vision I had for myself and my life. I saw that many girls in my community didn’t have a voice. They have great ideas... but no one listened or allowed them to express their ideas. So I came up with the idea of creating a space to involve these girls and investigate what projects we could do in our communities.”

The girls joining the club were shy at first but soon realized it was a safe space to voice their ideas. They are creating similar youth groups in their communities so other young people can also learn to raise their voices for the benefit of all.

Mongolian Development Center

Mongolia

The Mongolian Development Center (MDC) works with public kindergartens to implement its “Hidden Gems” early childhood development program. The curriculum, based on the conviction that every child is created noble and endowed with innate capacities and potential, uses workbooks, songs, and stories to teach character development to children ages 3-5. MDC organizes the kindergartens it works with according to experience and applies different strategies to each. This also allows schools with more experience to help accompany those just learning about the program.

Contributing to Social Discourse

In 2022, MDC hosted a conference on “The Purpose of Education” in Sainshand as a contribution to the social discourse on the importance of moral education. The conference was attended by the Head of the Educational Center, various methodologists, and the administrators and teachers from the province’s 14 kindergartens. MDC presented their approach to Education, three schools discussed their experience using Hidden Gems, and then breakout groups explored the importance of integrating moral and scientific education and how to reflect this in their vision and actions.

Improving access to education in Sierra Leone's rural villages, Programme for Children (PFC) is an example of participatory community-based development at its best. PFC collaborates with the Ministry of Education, its agencies, local communities, and religious leaders. The community identifies the need and provides the land and labor, PFC and its partners provide funding, and the Ministry of Education provides teacher certification to ensure high quality education. In 2022, PFC built and furnished the Koribondo Community Library, provided books, and trained ten librarians.

"Today, there is light in Koribondo Library."

This is how Joseph Lamin, Founder and Executive Director of Programme for Children, began his voice message to Mona shortly after being joined by Sierra Leone president, H.E. Julius Maada Bio, for the opening ceremony of the new Community Library in Koribondo. The President's visit was a testimony to the library's importance to the development of Sierra Leone and its people. The library will serve eleven elementary and middle schools in neighboring villages as well as college students enrolled in distance courses hosted at the Muloma Training Center.

Mr. Lamin continued, "Each child, when educated, has the potential to become a light in the world. Thank you so much for all you are doing to educate, empower and transform the lives of women and children."

Ruhi Arbab and Simmons Bahá'í Schools

Colombia

The Ruhi Arbab and Simmons Bahá'í Schools provide high quality K-12 education to children and youth in the neighboring towns of Puerta Tejada and Jamundi. Most students are of Afro-Colombian and mestizo descent from single-mother households. In addition to teaching academics, technology, and the arts, the schools offer spiritual and moral education that inspires students to be of service in their communities and promotes their personal and social transformation. Both institutions receive strong support from their families and communities who see the schools as valuable alternatives for the education of their children.

The Simmons School has been an important part of Steven's life ever since he entered pre-kindergarten. Throughout elementary and high school, his education at Simmons taught him to value his "spiritual, emotional part" and service to the community as much as academics. After high school, Steven went on to study mathematics at college. Now 28 years old, Steven has been teaching at Simmons School for the past seven years. He recently shared in a video how grateful he is for this opportunity to watch other young people at Simmons School benefit the way he did:

"To see a young person grow intellectually, but also as a person, as a human being ... always wanting to serve, wanting to help, wanting to transmit their qualities. For me, that is very important ... And to see them now that they are graduating, to see these excellent young people is very nice."

Founded in 2008, Starfish International's mission is to empower Gambian girls by providing them with an advanced education that is focused on service to humanity while at the same time providing international service-learning opportunities for their volunteers. Its Skill & Business Center, the initiative that Mona supports, trains young women ages 15-25 in skills such as sewing, tailoring, hairdressing, and catering to enable them to earn an income and lead a life of their own choosing.

Learning skills to help her "mum"

"I have been a student for almost a year now. It has been very challenging trying to balance school and work at home. Since I lost my dad in 2008, things have been hard for the family.

Being a student at the Starfish Skill Center has made things easier for my family and me. My goal is to open my own salon to assist my mum with some of the financial responsibilities at home. I am grateful for Mona's immense support because I can have the best education and sit in a comfortable classroom. My mum has been very happy and always encourages me to keep working harder in school."

Sunflower Mission provides access to K-12 education to marginalized children living in the remote villages of Vietnam who would otherwise fall into lives of crime, abuse, and human trafficking. The sunflower, resilient and bright, always grows towards the sun and symbolizes strength, hope, and growth. Sunflower Mission hopes that with the proper educational nourishment, Vietnam and its students will also grow.

20 Years of Sunflower Mission

Sunflower Mission celebrated its 20th anniversary in 2022! The formal gala "A Million Dreams" was an outpouring of love from many who were positively affected by its work, including a young woman who began attending a Sunflower elementary school as a fourth grader and is now one of the youngest engineering managers at Intel Vietnam. She joined Sunflower Mission's leadership team in Vietnam even before her graduation and continues to be a core member to this day.

New Era Creative Space

U.S.A.

New Era Creative Space's Girls EmpowerED program addresses the negative messaging that young women and girls face in our society. New Era helps girls build resilience and learn tools to help them live safe, thriving lives. The program meets weekly over the course of the school year. NECS trains 3–5 mentors from Peekskill High School to be the facilitators of the middle school program. Training covers leadership and facilitation skills, rights of girls and women, culturally responsive teaching, and using virtues to guide throughout the sessions. The mentors then meet regularly with an adult supervisor to create and develop each lesson and reflect on how the sessions are going.

Tarzana After-School Program

U.S.A.

This after-school program serves the students at Tarzana Elementary School where students speak a total of 44 different languages. Full-Circle Learning teachers integrate academics, the arts, conflict resolution, and community service to the local and global human family. Working with a sister school in Nigeria, the students in each grade grew a specific crop. The two schools exchanged information about the habits and growing methods that help prevent hunger in a community. The children in Nigeria recorded a video in which they sang to Tarzana students, wearing the tie-dyed shirts the Tarzana students had sent them in 2021.

"As Mona supporters for the past 5+ years, my husband and I have been impressed with the work that Mona does in poverty-stricken and power-imbalanced places and how very far our monetary contributions go... I'm so blessed to be able to contribute to the positive changes these projects promote. I LOVE MONA!"

"Education is a human right, a powerful driver of development, and one of the strongest instruments for reducing poverty and improving health, gender equality, peace, and stability. It delivers large, consistent returns in terms of income and is the most important factor to ensure equality of opportunities."

World Bank April 2022 Report, "Ending Learning Poverty."
