Our Mission

To address the root causes of global poverty, Mona Foundation partners with grassroots organizations that educate children, empower women and girls, and foster ethics and service — developing change agents who uplift themselves, their families, and their communities.

A young boy in a striped shirt is hanging from a metal bar, smiling. Another child is visible in the foreground. The background shows a blurred outdoor setting with trees and buildings.

The Year in Review

Progress Fueled by Partnership

In 2025, our global community turned generosity into real, lasting change. Together, we raised $2.4 million and reached 1,474,198 students across 18 countries—expanding access to education through 24 grassroots partners rooted in their communities.

Behind every number is a young person developing the capacity to shape their future and contribute to their community.

This year focused on expanding scale and reach through both familiar and emerging patterns. Despite widespread economic uncertainty and shrinking international aid, Mona's resilient partners continued strengthening their capacity, with some beginning to collaborate with their governments to scale proven programs through existing institutions. We also saw a new pattern take shape, with 3 partners extending their reach beyond national borders.

Through it all, one truth endured:

Every gift matters, bringing us closer to a world where every child has access to quality education.

Thank you for transforming belief into impact. With your support, we're moving closer to a world where education changes everything—for every child, in every community.

EXPANDING REACH

-  Over 33% of Mona partners are now scaling social impact by expanding their programs through existing institutions in collaboration with their governments and others.
- Three partners began working with communities beyond their national borders, sharing and adapting their proven resources to local contexts—adding South Africa, Zambia and Cambodia to our 2025 list of countries served. As a result, innovations like AI-driven learning, girls empowerment programs, and parent education are reaching even more students worldwide.
- Together, we have now educated and empowered 7.1 million students since Mona's inception.

NEW PARTNERSHIPS

The conclusion of our U.S. partnership with Full Circle Learning in 2024 opened the way for two new grassroots partners to join our global network this year:

- Irerero School in Rwanda, which serves the indigenous Pygmy or “Batwa” people, and
- Everstrong in the United States which provides free, accessible curriculum for youth, caregivers, and educators on the prevention of child trafficking and exploitation.

Recognized among the top 1% of nonprofits in the U.S., with the highest possible ratings from Charity Navigator, Candid, and BBB give.org

Awarded Best Nonprofit in the Pacific Northwest in the 2025 People's Choice vote organized by The Seattle Times.

SITE VISITS

After a pause in travel to lead events in honor of our 25th anniversary, Team Mona was once again on the move in 2025, visiting with our partners in Panama, Vietnam, The Gambia, South Africa, Zambia, and Rwanda. Conducting periodic site visits is one of the ways we support our partners' growth and ensure your generosity has lasting impact.

SUPPORTERS WE LOVE

Our incredible community helped fuel this year's progress by generously sharing their time, voice, and resources. We love, and are deeply grateful to, every supporter—and honor those whose commitment took deeper forms:

- Supporters who championed our mission through multi-year pledge commitments, making an investment that lasts a lifetime.
- Those who joined our monthly giving community, The Changemakers Circle, faithfully standing with Mona and our partners month after month.
- Those who made the powerful decision to include Mona Foundation in their will or trust as part of their lasting legacy.
- Supporters who established an Enduring Tribute Fund as a living legacy in honor or memory of a loved one.
- Those who donated to our Endowment Fund, ensuring Mona's work continues for generations to come.

The Mona Way

Supporting communities to create lasting change.

The elements that follow define Mona's approach to development — grounded in oneness, refined over 26 years, and proven effective, efficient, and transformative.

Grassroots organizations

We select and partner with proven grassroots educational organizations that empower women and girls and address the root causes of poverty and inequality.

Whole-child education

We invest in developing the full range of students' academic, artistic, social, and moral capabilities to raise change agents who uplift themselves, their families and their communities.

Long-term support

We provide long-term support to our grassroots partners as they build their capacities through experience, grow organically, and scale their programs to create and sustain change.

Trust and collaboration

We sustain relationships of trust and respect, collaborating with all of our partners as equal members of one human family.

Ethical leadership

We lead with and champion integrity, trustworthiness and genuine concern for others as critical imperatives for sustainable development.

Service

We emphasize indiscriminate service to others as a way of life and as an expression of our twofold purpose: to develop our individual capacities, and to contribute to the betterment of our communities.

Our Grassroots Partners

An Ecosystem of Learning and Lasting Change

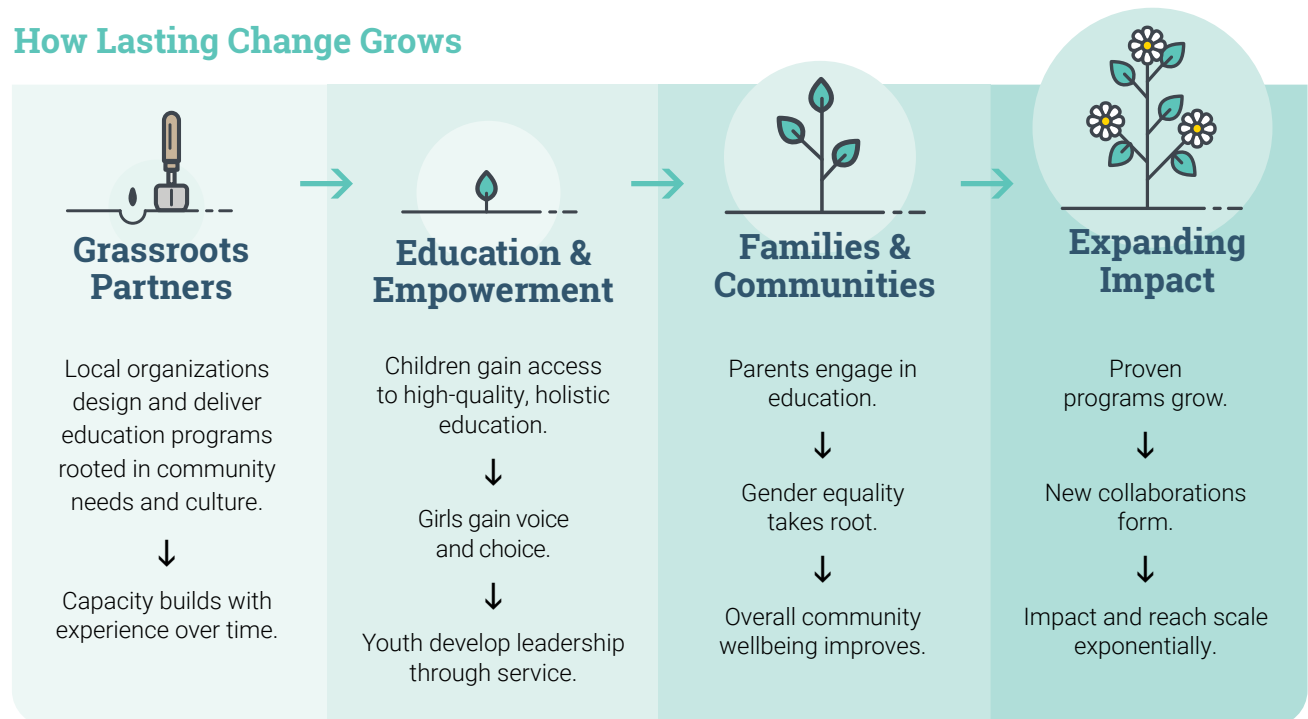

At Mona Foundation, we believe lasting change must begin and be led by local communities. In 2025, we partnered with 24 grassroots education organizations in 18 countries, reaching over 18,500 communities.

Through trust-based, long-term partnerships, these organizations are expanding access to education while building the capacity of individuals and communities to lead their own development.

Each Mona partner is a beacon of hope and progress, advancing solutions shaped by the strengths and needs of the communities they serve, and demonstrating how education creates pathways to opportunity and a life of service.

Their 2025 results and stories follow, reflecting what Mona's approach makes possible across diverse communities and contexts.

How Lasting Change Grows

ADCAM

Brazil

The Association for the Cohesive Development of the Amazon (ADCAM) in Manaus operates three programs: the School of the Future, integrating K–12 academics with moral and ethical education; the Young Apprentice Program, preparing youth ages 14–24 for the workforce; and the Training and Community Service Center, offering tutoring and workshops in health, education, and financial literacy. Staff also conduct home visits to address needs such as poverty and abuse, connecting families to services. Together, these programs develop citizens who pursue excellence, lead with integrity, and serve as agents of change.

PARTNER SINCE 2004

A Scholarship Opened New Doors

Fabiano attends ADCAM's School of the Future on a Mona scholarship, bringing his mother renewed hope and confidence in her son's future—and in how far he can go. She shares that it opened doors that once felt out of reach, allowing Fabiano to focus on his studies with greater peace of mind and confidence.

In a learning environment that recognizes his potential, encourages him to believe in himself, and to strive to do his best, Fabiano is growing academically and personally. Each new skill, each step forward, reflects the impact of this opportunity.

Badi School

Panama

Mona's partnership with Badi School began with two scholarships. Over 25 years later, it has grown from a kindergarten in a carport to one of the finest K-12 schools in Panama, integrating high quality academics, arts, and technology programs with an inclusive moral education program. The impact has reached far beyond its classrooms: inspired by the character and contributions of Badi graduates, Panama's Ministry of Education adopted its moral education framework nationwide. In 2025, Badi trained advanced three robotics teams to the finals of a 500-school national competition, and launched the Dynamic Encounter Program—an after-school initiative focused on cooperation and service. What began with two students is now helping shape a generation.

Jorge Lucero: Leading by Example

Jorge Lucero, 17, graduated with honors from Badi School in 2025 after 12 years of outstanding achievement. Living just six blocks from the school, he consistently appeared on the honor roll and earned the highest academic average in his last three years (4.98 out of 5) receiving recognition from the Ministry of Education and the unique honor of serving as Regional Director of Education for a day.

Beyond academics, Jorge was an active member of the Robotics and Arts Clubs, participating in national competitions and earning a Diploma in Pictorial Art. He also tutored peers for over 500 hours, serving as a role model for his 38 classmates. His leadership inspired 32 of them to achieve honors for the first time, showing the ripple effect of dedication.

Barli

Institute

India

Barli Institute for the Development of Rural Women in Madhya Pradesh is a portal for social change, using a forward-thinking curriculum to help build a world where women and girls can thrive. Serving young women from over 950 villages, Barli offers a six-month residential training program in literacy, vocational skills, and community development to provide its students with the skills to start their own business and the confidence to lead the transformation of their villages.

In 2025, Barli focused on long-term impact through mentoring and follow-up with alumnae after they returned to their villages, helping ensure that acquired skills in literacy, tailoring, and health practices are applied for the benefit of their communities.

Sumitra's Story:
One Stitch at a Time

"I may not have everything I need today, but I have the courage to keep trying. If I stop, my dreams will stop too. So I choose to move forward, one stitch at a time."

Sumitra passed her 9th standard exam but had to leave school due to financial constraints, spending four years working in a tiles factory. A turning point came when she met a Barli graduate who encouraged her to enroll in the Institute, where she quickly stood out for her determination. After graduating, she wanted to buy a sewing machine but had to wait until her family could sell its crop months later. Refusing to be idle, Sumitra visited tailoring shops in town asking to practice on spare machines. One shopkeeper agreed and since, she has worked every day without pay, purely to build her skills.

Educational Initiatives

India

Educational Initiatives is pioneering the use of AI-driven adaptive learning software to revolutionize how teachers teach and how students learn. Its flagship platform, Mindspark, enables students from diverse backgrounds to learn at their own pace by identifying their learning needs and addressing gaps through personalized instruction. In 2025, Ei partnered with the government of Himachal Pradesh, India to implement Mindspark in public schools across eight districts. It also expanded in South Africa and launched new pilots in Zambia and Cambodia in collaboration with PLT Health and local education institutions.

Thabang's Story: "Now learning feels like it's for me"

Thabang is a Grade 6 student in South Africa. Life in his village isn't easy. Electricity disappears without warning, and muddy roads make the long walk to school even harder. Still, Thabang shows up determined every day. Before his school had Mindspark, math felt out of reach. Now the lessons adjust to his level, building his skills step by step and boosting confidence with every problem solved. His teachers see progress, and his parents see a happier, more self-assured child.

Colombia

The Foundation for the Application and Teaching of Science (FUNDAEC) works to empower individuals and communities, particularly in rural areas, through education and capacity-building. Its programs aim to enhance human potential, promote social well-being, and address challenges in education, agriculture, community organization, and local economies. In 2025, Mona supported:

- An agroforestry training program for youth, parents, and teachers working towards food security
- A scholarship program for college, technical, and trade students, primarily women and those from rural and diverse ethnic communities
- The Preparation for Social Action program to equip indigenous Wayuu youth with skills to uplift their community.

Service That Shaped a Career

For the past seven years, Keila, 25, has coordinated children’s education programs through the Ruhí Institute, supporting children, youth, and adults in their learning processes. Through her work she has witnessed the impact firsthand. "I have seen how the institute's curriculum leaves a deep mark on children and their communities, strengthening not only their character, but also their sense of unity and collective purpose," she shares.

That experience sparked a desire to orient her professional life toward service, leading her to pursue a degree in Social Work. While coordinating programs in the mornings and attending university in the afternoons, she faced financial difficulties covering tuition, transportation, and materials. The Solidarity Fund helped her acquire a computer and provided support that allowed her to stay in school. In September 2025, Keila graduated as a social worker, a profession she sees as a natural extension of her calling to help her community.

MAIA Impact

School

Guatemala

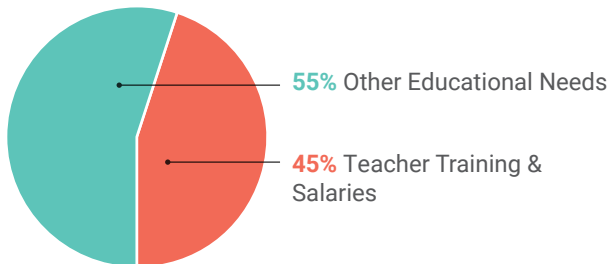

MAIA Impact School in Sololá is the first and only all-girls, Indigenous-women-led secondary school in Central America. It serves Maya girls from more than 40 rural highland communities, preparing them to pursue greater opportunity and shape their own futures.

In 2025, MAIA's rigorous and supportive model led to strong outcomes: 83% of students met grade-level reading goals and 88% achieved proficiency in math on national exams—far exceeding national averages of 13% and 35%.

Building on this success, MAIA expanded its impact beyond its own classrooms by training 100 public school educators in Sololá as part of its three-year strategy to scale impact.

Cynthia and Jasmine's Story: A Mother-Daughter Journey

When Cynthia joined Parent University, she was looking to better support her child's education. What she found was something more: an opportunity to grow alongside her daughter, Jasmine. The program challenged her to build new skills, find her voice, and see herself not only as a parent, but as a learner.

Jasmine, now an adult, witnessed that transformation and chose to join the program herself. The shared experience reshaped their relationship. Conversations deepened, confidence grew, and education became something they pursued in partnership, encouraging and learning from one another.

For Jasmine, her mother's commitment was a powerful example that growth is lifelong, and learning belongs to every generation. For Cynthia, the experience expanded her sense of what was possible, reinforcing her role not only as a supporter of education, but as an active participant. Their story reflects what Parent University makes possible: stronger families, deeper engagement, and confidence that extends beyond the classroom.

Parent University in Savannah, Georgia works to break the cycle of persistent generational poverty by training parents and caregivers to enhance their parenting, life, and leadership skills and become effective advocates of their children in schools. Courses are designed with input from the community and include early childhood education, preparing children for school, navigating public systems, technical training, financial training, and health and wellness. Weekend sessions are generally held at a local high school. By creating a strong bridge between schools and community, Parent University helps maximize student learning and provides a culture of support and guidance in which families can thrive.

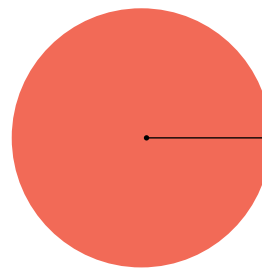

In 2025, Parent University continued to expand beyond its Savannah hub, with active programs in Pensacola, Atlanta, and Chicago, and early adoption of the model underway in Stockton, CA and Philadelphia.

Programme for Children (PFC) collaborates with community members, local and religious leaders, and government agencies to build schools, improving access to education in Sierra Leone’s rural villages. The organization is a great example of participatory community-based development at its best. In villages with a critical lack of education infrastructure, the community provides land and manual labor. PFC secures funding to build a school, oversees construction, supports teacher training, and provides materials and supplies, including health services for girls. The Ministry of Education trains, certifies and pays the teachers to ensure students receive a high-quality education. In 2025, PFC completed construction of the now fully operational Kpeyama Primary School.

Investing in Teachers, Transforming Classrooms

Mariama teaches at Kpatobu Primary School, built with Mona's support in 2023. Before joining the Teacher Training Program, her classroom relied on lectures with little student participation. Now in year two, she runs small learning groups, daily reading activities, and tracks individual progress. Her methods have paid off.

- Attendance rose from 70% to 85%
- Students reading complex sentences grew from 12 to 22 out of 30
- End-of-term scores improved 20% across subjects

Parents have noticed the difference at home, and Mariama says her students genuinely enjoy learning.

Mongolian Development Center

Mongolia

Collaborating closely with public kindergartens, the Mongolian Development Center (MDC) trains teachers and engages parents to implement its renowned “Hidden Gems” early childhood development program. Rooted in the belief that every child possesses inherent goodness and potential, the curriculum uses workbooks, songs, and stories to teach children ages 2-5 to develop a virtuous character. MDC tailors its approach to each kindergarten based on their level of experience to ensure a dynamic and effective implementation of the curriculum across diverse educational settings. In 2025, the team moved beyond training teachers to also train kindergarten managers on creating an environment of unity in diversity.

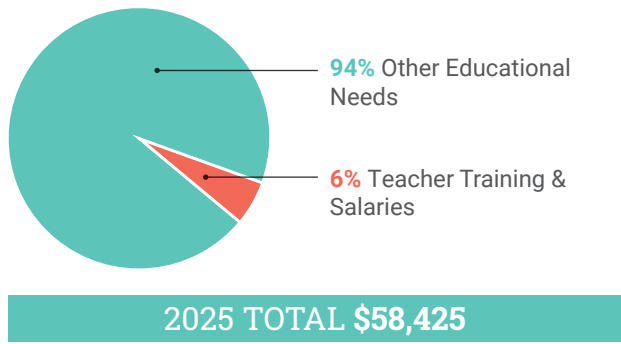

PARTNER SINCE 2008

A Small Act of Kindness

Every year in October, a small outing is organized for the kindergarten children, teachers, and parents. During this year’s outing, wet snow was falling, and the sneakers of a student named Batdelger became soaked, leaving his socks damp. Noticing this, another student named Oyu turned to the grandmother who was accompanying the children and said, “Grandma, I’m wearing two pairs of socks. Let me give one pair to Batdelger—his feet are cold.” She then took off her own socks and gave them to him. Parents who witnessed this act of compassion and care were deeply pleased and expressed their appreciation, noting with satisfaction that the children were developing kindness and humanity.

Ruhi Arbab & Simmons Bahá'í Schools

Colombia

The Ruhi Arbab and Simmons Bahá'í Schools provide high quality K-12 education to children and youth in Puerta Tejada and Jamundi. Their curriculum aims to empower students through academic, spiritual, and moral education to improve their own lives and contribute to the development of their communities. Both schools operate under the auspices of the Ruhi Arbab Foundation. In 2025, both schools strengthened connections between school and home through initiatives such as "Seeds of Peace," which uses the metaphor of growing a plant to cultivate values like respect and empathy, "Coffee in the Classroom" which opened space for dialogue between teachers and parents, and ongoing home visits. Renovations were also completed at the Simmons' school office.

PARTNER SINCE 2020

Learning to Serve with Respect

Eighth-grade students at the Ruhi Arbab School designed and carried out an environmental service project, visiting neighbors in the community to engage in conversations about everyday actions like recycling, saving water, and reducing plastic use. Parents accompanied students house by house throughout the process.

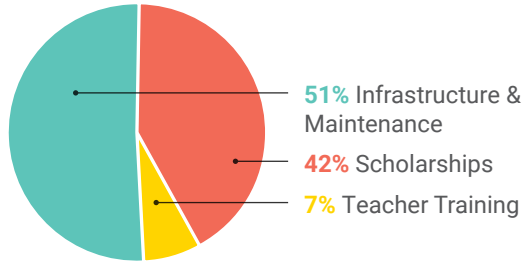

One student reflected: "This project taught us that serving is not just about completing a task, but about getting involved with sensitivity and respect. It reminded us that caring for the environment is a shared responsibility, and that each of us can be part of the change from our own space."

From Learner to Provider

Rovi joined the Skills Center in 2023 after completing Grade 12. Growing up, making ends meet was always difficult – but her love of cooking led her to Cookery and Catering.

Her learning quickly extended beyond the classroom. She assisted teachers at community events and, after 18 months, secured an internship that led to paid employment while she completes her studies.

Rovi was already building her own path. She sold sausage rolls, fish pies, and doughnuts at the local market. During Ramadan, her food business grew so successful it funded her school materials – and for the first time, she was able to buy Christmas gifts for her mother and contribute a monthly allowance to her family.

Looking ahead, Rovi dreams of opening her own restaurant chain: "I want to be my own boss and create job opportunities for Gambian youth. If young people have work, we reduce poverty, reduce crime, and reduce stress in families. That's what I want."

Sunflower Mission

Vietnam

Children in rural Vietnam often live in poverty and face limited access to quality education. Many walk long distances to unsafe or makeshift schools, and without support, they risk dropping out or entering cycles of hardship and exploitation.

Sunflower Mission addresses this by building schools and providing scholarships to marginalized children in remote villages. To date, the organization has built 66 schools and supported the education of more than 28,000 students, opening the door for children to have a choice-filled future and to contribute to the transformation of their villages.

In 2025, Sunflower Mission completed construction of Hung Loi 2 Elementary School in a remote village in the province of Tuyên Quang, featuring five new classrooms, restrooms, a computer lab, library, and the organization's largest playground to date.

PARTNER SINCE 2016

A Note about New Horizon School: The ongoing violence and instability in Haiti led to the school's devastating disruption in 2023. Unfortunately, conditions have not improved and the New Horizon property remains unsecured with no clear pathway forward. Mona stands ready to continue supporting New Horizon as soon as the school can safely reopen.

Our Supporters

A Global Community

Building Lasting Change

Across the world, people and organizations are choosing to invest in what matters, ensuring more children have access to education and the opportunity to shape their own futures.

We are deeply grateful to all those recognized on the following pages whose extraordinary generosity helped educate more than 1.47 million students in 2025.

Together with our grassroots partners, this global community is breaking cycles of poverty, advancing gender equality, and strengthening the overall wellbeing of communities across four continents.

Moving Forward,

Together

We've seen what's possible when our global community comes together: students pursuing their potential, girls empowered to shape their futures, and communities transformed through education.

But this work is far from finished. With our grassroots partners and your continued support, we are moving forward with purpose to reach 10 million students by 2030. Together, we are shaping a future where every child has access to quality education and is empowered to uplift their communities.

With you, this progress continues—because education changes everything.
