Specialist distribution & custom manufacturing for Harsh & High-end applications

Buying components for harsh environments should be as easy as buying them for less demanding applications.

That's why Charcroft's specialists are available throughout the UK, online or on the phone. We'll talk you through the additional testing options, release numbers, industry standards and the documentation you'll need.

We've been talking to customers who work in harsh environments for over 40 years so we understand the products, the documentation and the applications.
