

Debbie Rowland

Passives specialist, mountain bike racer & Charcroft sales manager

After 19 years at Charcroft, there is not much that Debbie does not know about passives. Every working day, she helps customers to solve passive procurement and design challenges, such as finding alternatives to obsolete components; identifying a part number from a product description or NATO number; or simply helping to source parts which are hard to find or on extended lead-times.

When she is not simplifying passive procurement and design for Charcroft customers, Debbie races a mountain bike across the Brecon beacons.

To see how Debbie's specialist knowledge could help to make passive procurement and design easier for you, call her on 01591 612231, or email her on
