5 THINGS YOU MAY NOT KNOW ABOUT CABIN AIR FILTERS

1. Cabin air filters can capture airborne containments from entering your vehicle through the HVAC system.
2. The air inside your vehicle can be significantly more polluted than the air outside.
3. Cabin air filters can be located behind the glove box, under the dash, or under the hood.*
4. On average, cabin air filters should be inspected every 12,000 miles or 12 months, replaced every 24,000 miles or 24 months.*
