1. SME DEFINITION

According to the SME definition user guide, SME is to be considered an enterprise. According to the Definition, an enterprise is 'any entity engaged in an economic activity, irrespective of its legal form'. This wording reflects the terminology used by the European Court of Justice in its judgments. It is the economic activity that is the determining factor, not the legal form. In practice, this means that the self-employed, family firms, partnerships and associations or any other entity that is regularly engaged in economic activity may be considered as enterprises. Economic activity is usually seen as 'the sale of products or services at a given price, on a given/direct market'.

The SME definition takes into account the following three criteria:

The staff headcount

The staff headcount is a compulsory criterion for determining whether an enterprise can be considered an SME and, if so, in which category the SME falls. If an enterprise does not meet it, it cannot be considered an SME.

- ◆ Included in staff headcount: the staff headcount criterion covers full-time, part-time, temporary and seasonal staff and includes the following:
- → employees;
 - → persons working for the enterprise who have been seconded to it and are considered to be employees under national law (this can also include temporary or so-called interim employees);
 - → owner-managers;
 - → partners engaged in a regular activity in the enterprise and deriving financial advantages from the enterprise.

Not included in staff headcount:

- → apprentices or students who are engaged in vocational training and have an apprenticeship or vocational training contracts;
- employees on maternity or parental leave.

♦ The annual turnover

Annual turnover is determined by calculating the income that an enterprise received during the year in question from the sale of products and provision of services falling within the company's ordinary activities, after deducting any rebates. Turnover should not include value-added tax (VAT) or other indirect taxes.

♦ The balance sheet total

The annual balance sheet total refers to the value of a company's main assets. The category of micro, small and medium-sized enterprises consists of enterprises which:

- ◆ employ fewer than 250 persons; and
- ♦ have either an annual turnover not exceeding EUR 50 million or an annual balance sheet total not exceeding EUR 43 million.

Meeting the staff headcount criterion is mandatory to be considered an SME. However, an enterprise may choose to meet either the turnover or the balance sheet total ceiling. It does not need to satisfy both requirements and may exceed one of them without impact on its SME status.

The Definition offers the above choice since, by their nature, enterprises in the trade and distribution sectors have higher turnover figures than those in manufacturing. Providing an option between this criterion and the balance sheet total, which reflects the overall wealth of an enterprise, ensures that SMEs engaged in different types of economic activity are treated fairly. By comparing its data with the thresholds for the three criteria, an enterprise can determine whether it is a micro, small or medium-sized enterprise.

To sum up:

- Micro-enterprises are defined as enterprises that employ fewer than 10 persons and whose annual turnover or annual balance sheet total does not exceed EUR 2 million.
- Small enterprises are defined as enterprises that employ fewer than 50 persons and whose annual turnover or annual balance sheet total does not exceed EUR 10 million.
- Medium-sized enterprises are defined as enterprises that employ fewer than 250 persons and either have an annual turnover that does not exceed EUR 50 million, or an annual balance sheet not exceeding EUR 43 million.

| Company category | Staff headcount | Turnover | OR | Balance sheet total |
|------------------|--------------------|----------|----|---------------------|
| Medium sized | < 250 | ≤€ 50 m | | ≤ € 43 m |
| Small | < 50 | ≤€10 m | | ≤ € 10 m |
| Micro < | < 10 | ≤€10 m | | ≤ € 2 m |

IN CASE THE EU tourism SME goes under a particular threshold:

Article 4.2 provides stability and certainty to companies that are close to the ceilings and risk exceeding them temporarily during an exceptional year and/or in volatile markets. Thus, if an enterprise exceeds the headcount or financial ceilings during the reference year, this will not affect its situation and it will retain the SME status with which it began the accounting year. However, it will lose SME status if it goes above the ceilings for two consecutive accounting periods. Conversely, an enterprise may gain SME status if it was previously a large enterprise but then fell below the ceilings for two consecutive accounting periods.

3. HOW TO APPLY
