44th FNPS Conference

A Living Mosaic: Connecting People, Plants, & Places

Hosted by the Pawpaw Chapter

WHY SPONSOR

Plant Your Flag in Florida's Conservation Community

The FNPS Conference brings together the people most passionate about Florida's native plants: scientists, land managers, educators, advocates, nursery professionals, and community leaders from across the state.

When you sponsor, you are not buying ad space - you are planting your flag in a community that genuinely cares, with an audience that pays attention, takes action, and remembers who showed up.

Your sponsorship goes directly to work. FNPS's mission to conserve, preserve, and restore Florida's native plants is carried out every day across 33 chapters statewide through plant rescues, habitat restoration, citizen science, and policy advocacy.

This is targeted, meaningful, mission-aligned visibility before, during, and long after the conference ends.

The Florida Native Plant Society's mission is to conserve, preserve, and restore native plants and their habitats

The 2027 FNPS conference at the Shores Resort & Spa, Daytona Beach will be the largest FNPS gathering yet. Sponsors gain visibility across every element of a multi-day immersive experience.
