‘Accessory led impact’ is the statement about spring fashion trends

In the realm of fashion, scarves are back and becoming a beloved trend in spring 2026, with fresh designs and luxurious fabrics being introduced for the upcoming season. Many designers have embraced vibrant colors and patterns, infusing their collections with bold choices bound to leave a lasting impression.

A scarf holds the key to elevating any plain ensemble, serving as the perfect embellishment to create a look uniquely you. Scarves as an accessory category never go out of style. Smaller silk scarves are back not the larger infinity style but a nice accent to your outfits.

When putting it all together here are some tips on selecting scarves:

- ◆ Give yourself plenty of time when selecting a scarf. Give your imagination and creative ability time to experiment what balances best with your outfit and you!

- ◆ Try on the scarf facing a mirror. Look for its suitability and blend with your features as well as your coloring. This is where your Color Alliance Palette and Signia are very helpful. The color should enhance you and the lines mimic your contour or angle in the face.
- ◆ Keep versatility in mind when making your selection. Can the scarf be used with more than one outfit?
- ◆ Select good quality scarves. Generally, better quality scarves have straight edges, that is, the edges will parallel exactly when the scarf is folded exactly in half. Look for a rolled edge that is top stitched.
- ◆ Choose the size according to how you are going to use the scarf. Is it a major accessory or a simple accent piece.
- ◆ Learn more about what the ‘accessory led impact’ means at my Elegance of Style Update.

When looking at your face shape, you harmonizes best with the scarf, when the print or pattern mimics and balances you.

You will want to mimic the line of your jawline. Do contour or angled patterns work better in your selection of scarves?

It will make a difference in you being in harmony and the focal point or the pattern wearing you. Can you tell on this women which is best?

She is focal point here not the pattern. If you have not had your Signia done, set it up now, to find out more.

Be All You Can Be!

Any woman can have style. The challenge is developing it. Going into the best shops and buying expensive clothes won't necessarily help. It takes a different type of investment --one that requires less money, but a lot of time and effort.

Style comes with understanding your needs and lifestyle and, even more importantly, it comes with respecting and enjoying yourself as a unique person, an individual. By this, I mean, learning to accept what you can't change, and focusing, more positively, on your assets.

There is a freedom that comes with saying to yourself: "This is all I can ever be, but I can and will make the most of it."

Be as attractive as you positively can— the best you possible. Package yourself so you can be happy in your skin and content with the impression you make in all the various aspects of your life.

Stylish woman make effective use of three key personal preferences to achieve their distinctive look.

Hairstyle - Well-groomed hair cut in proportion to your figure attracts immediate attention and establishes you as a person who cares about her appearance.

Color - It draws attention to your face, creating harmony and it can make you appear taller, slimmer, more vibrant, and more confident.

Accessories - More than any other element, they indicate the sort of person you are - quiet and discreet, or strong and forceful. For work, your accessories should always be the best quality you can afford. You can make a cheap outfit look expensive with quality accessories, but cheap accessories will ruin the most expensive dress.

These are areas you will continually work on to build your own style. It may change somewhat as you have major changes in your lifestyle.
