ST. JAMES CATHEDRAL | IMMACULATE CONCEPTION | CHRIST OUR HOPE

Dear Friends,
On April 28, our Parish Family Vision Council gathered to begin discussing the feedback you provided in our community conversations during Lent. Many thanks to those of you who joined in person or virtually to respond to the question, "Who is God calling us to become as a new parish?"

As a reminder, we are in the midst of this process of discerning a vision and priorities as St. James Cathedral, Christ Our Hope and Immaculate Conception parishes come together to form one new parish. We began this process in the summer of 2024, and the goal is to complete this process sometime in the summer or early fall of 2027. It is then that we will submit our plan to the archbishop that describes how we plan to live into the future as one parish. So, in some ways one could say that the completion of our plan will be the end of the beginning.

What does it mean for us to become one parish, and why are we doing this? As much as we have discussed this process, I still hear those questions from folks. We are doing this so that we can more effectively preach the Gospel in the Archdiocese of Seattle. Our three parishes, grounded in a vision that, in many important ways we already share, are going to come together and leverage the resources of our physical campuses, our churches and our staffs, so that we can do even greater work in spreading the Gospel than what we are doing now. And what we are doing now in all three parishes is already great work in advancing the Good News!

That desire of doing even greater work than we are doing now came through loud and clear at the gathering of our Parish Family Vision Council last week. This Council, made up of representatives from all three of our parishes, is tasked with leading this process of helping us to articulate our vision and then put real flesh on it with concrete action plans. As we began our work of discussing the ideas that emerged from our community conversations in March, many members of the Council expressed excitement about how this coming together will help us to be an even stronger and greater presence in Seattle – a presence for good, a presence for sharing the love and care and mercy of Jesus Christ.

We also reflected on some of the fears that have been expressed by parishioners. There is a fear of the loss of identity and of the particular character of each parish that makes us who we are. While these fears are understandable, I want to reassure you that maintaining and celebrating the rich diversity of our three parishes is key to the planning we are doing for the future.

For example, our distinct worship styles and music are highly valued in all three parishes. I don't see that changing in our new parish. While we will become one parish and will celebrate our unity, it will be a unity in diversity, not uniformity. I am so grateful for the opportunity to celebrate Mass in all three of our churches. I am used to, and comfortable with, different styles of worship, and I can say that the liturgies in all three parishes nourish me and are a real joy to celebrate.

The rich history of our three parishes is also something to give thanks for and to celebrate. I would encourage all of us to explore the websites of our three parishes and become familiar with our history, and to look at the online bulletins and communications from Immaculate Conception, Christ Our Hope, and St. James Cathedral to become familiar with the various offerings for formation, worship, service, and community building. It's a way of getting to know each other a little better.

At our Vision Council meeting we discussed how we would like to have more opportunities to get to know each other and to visit the churches and campuses of each of our parishes. We did that early on in this process, in the summer of 2024, and many people found it very enriching. We will be offering more opportunities like those at all three of our campuses in the coming months.

In the days to come, I will continue to update you on the progress of developing a Vision statement and the initiatives that flow from it. Please keep our leadership teams, especially the staff and consultative leaders at our three parishes, the Vision Council members, Fathers Thumbi, Chanda and me, and parishioners in all three of our parishes in your prayers as this process continues to unfold.

May God Bless you abundantly this week!
Peace,

Father Gary Lazzeroni
Pastor

Easter Season

Have you noticed that during the Easter Season the first reading on Sunday is taken from the New Testament? It is always from the Acts of the Apostles! Usually on Sundays the first reading is from the Old Testament. This shift during the Easter season focuses on the event of the resurrection and the growth of the early Christian community, the Church.

Sharing our Faith: Our Lenten Journey here at Immaculate Conception.

Station 9 – reflection from Dennis Cook

Jesus falls for the third time

Not only was Jesus sentenced to die on the cross but he was also tasked to carry the cross the soldiers would later use to kill him. His journey up the place call Golgotha was not meant to be easy. Under the burden of the cross Jesus becomes exhausted and falls a total of three times. The cross Jesus carried is not unlike crosses we all carry; however, ours may not be physical wooden crosses.

We all end up carrying crosses whether physically, emotionally, mentally or socially as Jesus did. I realize throughout my life as a son, brother, friend, father and husband I have fallen many times. The number of times I have fallen is far greater than 3 times. After each time I have gotten up with the grace of God and realize that God will not place a burden on me he doesn't believe I can handle. It is my prayer that after each time I get up from falling, I have a closer relationship with God through Prayer and Scripture.

As we come to the close of Lent, please take the time and reflect on the burdens we are carrying and on the times we have fallen and got up, none of this would be possible if Jesus didn't carry the greatest burden of all and died for our sins.

Station 10 – General Reflection

Jesus is stripped of His clothes

In Catholic tradition, this symbolizes the humiliation and dehumanization that Jesus experienced before His crucifixion. The act was physical but also spiritual representing the stripping of His integrity and shedding His pretensions. It is an act of total surrender, in which he empties Himself to fulfill the will of the Father.

It also invites us to examine our own lives. What do we need to strip away to follow Christ? His garments being taken away teaches us that true freedom and dignity are not found in what we possess but in who we are before God.

We as believers, are encouraged to consider how we can live with humility in our daily lives, seeking to be more like Jesus in our actions and attitudes.

Station 11 – reflection from Fred Verzosa

Jesus is nailed to the cross

As we pause at the Eleventh Station, we witness a moment that is almost unbearable to imagine: Jesus being nailed to the Cross. The sound of the hammer, the cruelty of the act, and the quiet strength of Christ accepting this suffering out of love. It is a moment that forces us to confront both the depth of human sin and the even deeper mercy of God.

For me, this station speaks differently depending on the roles I carry in life. As a father and grandfather, I cannot help but think of the vulnerability of Jesus—God's own Son—placed into the hands of violence. It reminds me of my responsibility to protect, guide, and love my family, even when the world feels harsh or uncertain. Jesus' sacrifice challenges me to be more patient, more forgiving, and more present. It calls me to teach the next generation not only faith, but compassion and courage.

As a parishioner, this station reminds me that our faith is not meant to be comfortable. The Cross is not just a symbol we wear; it is a calling to stand with those who suffer, to speak for those who are silent, and to love even when it costs us something. Jesus did not turn away from pain—He transformed it. And He invites us to do the same in our own community.

As a Filipino American, this moment echoes the stories of sacrifice woven into our culture—stories of parents who left home for a better future, of ancestors who endured hardship with quiet strength, of communities that survived oppression with faith as their anchor. The nails in Jesus' hands remind me of the "pako" of our own history—the burdens we carry, the wounds we inherit, and the resilience that keeps us standing. Christ's suffering becomes a bridge between our faith and our identity, reminding us that God is present in every struggle of our people.

For our society, this station challenges us to look honestly at the ways we still "nail" others to crosses—through injustice, discrimination, indifference, or silence. Jesus' outstretched arms on the Cross call us to stretch our own arms wider: to welcome, to heal, to reconcile, to build a world where dignity is honored and compassion is lived. As we stand before this station, may we allow the image of Christ nailed to the Cross to pierce our hearts—not to bring despair, but to awaken love. May it inspire us to be instruments of mercy in our families, our parish, our Filipino American community, and our society. And may we carry the courage of Christ into every corner of our lives.

Lord Jesus, nailed to the Cross, teach us to love as You loved. Amen!

All those struggling with mental illnesses or those concerned with understanding and helping others in a faith-based context are invited to a Mental Health Ministry Retreat at the Peace & Spirituality Center in Bellevue on Sat. June 20th, 9:30am-4:30pm.

This retreat – “No Unlikely Saints” – will focus on the ties between saints and mental illness.
