In and Out; Us and Them: Two Takes on an Old Tale

Message from
Rabbi Michael L. Feshbach

With appropriate timing as we approach a day of remembrance for MLK, the book of Exodus opens with the first recorded episode of civil disobedience in world literature. Here, we hear of Shifra and Pu'ah, "ham'yaldot ha'ivriyot," the "Hebrew midwives" who, at obvious risk, defy immoral orders issued by their government, and allow Israelite boys to live. Hauled before Pharaoh and grilled about their audacious act, they provide the flimsy and fabricated excuse that "the Israelite women are not like Egyptians; they are like wild animals! Before the midwives can even arrive, they have given birth and hidden their boys from harm."

The thing is, how you view these women – and who you think they are – leads to a vastly different interpretation of this story, and the lesson for our own lives.

The classic Jewish view is that the midwives are, themselves, Israelites. "Hebrew midwives" describes their identity as well as their occupation. Centuries after the story was written, the rabbis of the Talmud, uncomfortable with cameo appearances and otherwise unidentified individuals, asserts that Shifra and Pu'ah are none other than... Miriam and Yochevet. The sister and mother of Moses.

This, then, is a tale of vulnerable women from a persecuted minority using wile and wit to act in a moral manner. We are standing up for ourselves. It is a classic case of self-defense, and a lesson to always look out for our own interests.

But two things have always bothered me about this traditional reading. First: it is hard to imagine Israelite women being so flippant with Pharaoh. And second: it is also bizarre to hear them describe their own kin as being like "wild animals."

I want to suggest a different reading. What if the term "Hebrew midwives" is entirely about their work? What if these were Egyptian women whose job was to be midwives to the Israelites?

This view of the women addresses the issue of their attitude - and their ease with Pharaoh. But the lesson of the story would be quite different. It is still about morality, but here it is about doing the right thing by standing up for others! It is not about self-defense, but, rather, defending those who cannot stand up for themselves.

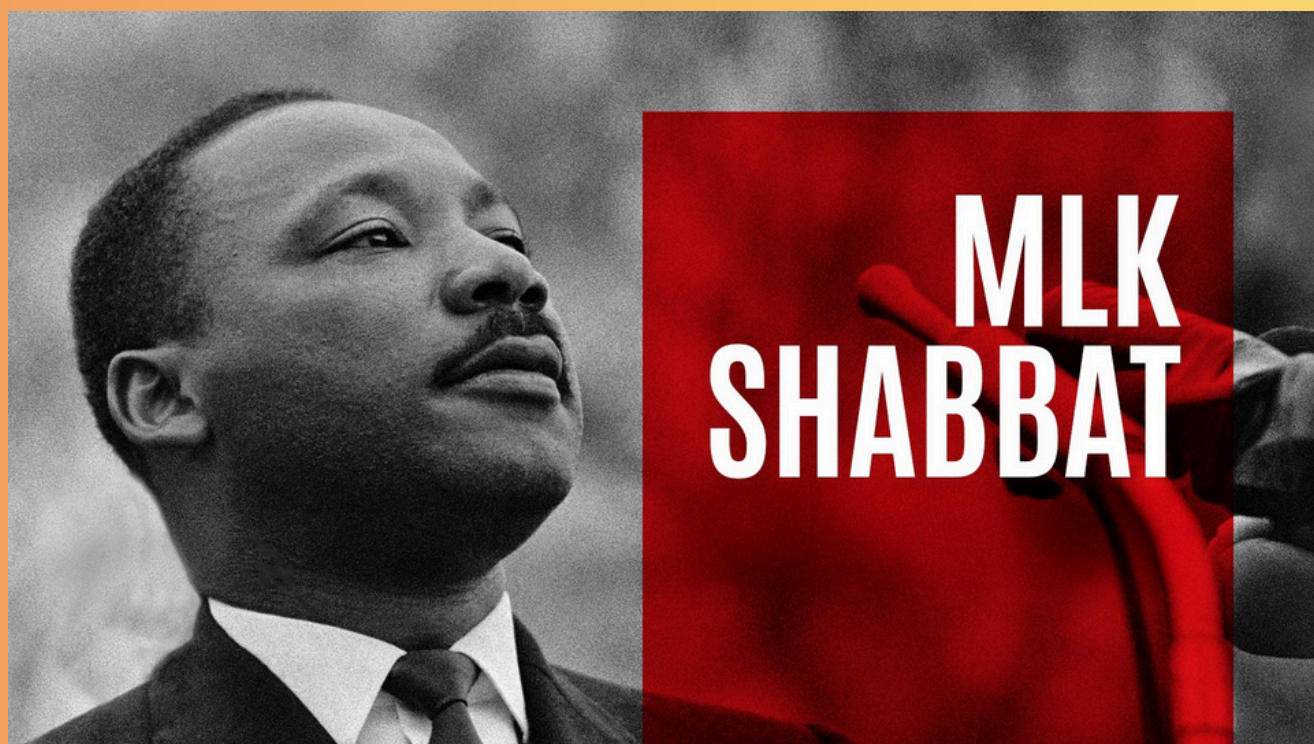

Even if taught to us by Egyptian women - or maybe especially if so - this is a moral entirely consistent with Jewish teaching and tradition. Defend the weak, protect the vulnerable, give voice to those who are silent and suppressed.

And it is a reminder, at this season when we remember the struggle for civil rights, freedom, liberty and equality, that it falls to each of us... to look out for all of us.

Both possibilities are important here. Standing up for ourselves and speaking up for others are both vital virtues. Which is it and what are we to take away? Maybe the ambiguity is built in. Maybe it was supposed to be both lessons, all along. In and out. Us and Them

Our service in honor of Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. is on Friday, January 16, beginning at 7:00 PM. At this service we will be presenting our Fourth Annual Beth Israel/NAACP Spirit of Martin Luther King Awards, and hearing from the high school seniors selected by their schools as best representing the spirit of MLK. Please join us -- and bring friends and neighbors with you -- for this special service!

Greetings for 2026

Message from Linda Karp, President

As we begin 2026, I want to wish each of you a wonderful year ahead. Lots of exciting programs will be happening at Beth Israel and we welcome any of your thoughts and suggestions.

The Annual Meeting & Brunch
January 11, 2026, 10am
Please call to make your reservation
609-641-3600

At the Annual meeting, we will Install our officers and the Board of Trustees. I want to thank our current Board members for the time they have devoted this past year to ensure that Beth Israel remains a vibrant and active synagogue.

Two Board members are completing their terms: Stephanie Glaymon and Jill Wood. Thank you for your participation in a leadership role in our congregation. We know you will continue to be active members in Temple life.

This year we welcome two new Board members: Dawn Gadon and Lynn Stein. We look forward to your Board participation as we move into 2026.

Dues bills for 2026 has been sent out. We have not had any financial adjustment, so we are looking for other ways to raise funds.

Consider buying a leaf on the Weis Tree of Life. You can honor someone by making this purchase. Take a few moments to look at the Tree on the back wall of the Weis Lobby.

Buy Shoprite Script. For every $100 purchased, Beth Israel earns $5.

If you are able, consider joining the Covenant Society. These members pay more than the requested dues, and their generosity greatly helps meet our financial obligations.

Each Friday at 5:30p, we have Shabbat Service. I encourage you to join us. There is something special about being together in the Synagogue. The music and prayers serve to strengthen our connection to each other and to our Jewish journey. It may be cold outside, but there is warmth inside the Synagogue!

I wish the best to you and your families,
Linda Karp

Relationships and Community

Message from Susan Sokalsky, Executive Director

My brother hosts a podcast weekly. This week's podcast was all about relationships and community. He shares this podcast with a woman we have known since junior high. When I finished listening, I called him and said almost everything I do every day is about relationships. (Funny, how genetics can have siblings say the same things with different words.) We talked about the epidemic of isolation among both young and older people, and how much a hug contributes to physical wellness.

Beth Israel is about relationships and seeing each other in person. I know streaming is here to stay, but it is not the same as worshipping together in person. The warmth of Shabbat in the beauty of the Wolff Chapel is not replicated on screen. Coming together at Book Group or Chair Yoga inspires community. Watching a movie with like-minded people encourages dialogue and discussion. We try to offer new and innovative programs so there is something for everyone.

Our culture in 2026 is in flux. Let us bring togetherness and community back and let's start with Beth Israel.

Message from Cookie Feldman, Director of Education

The calendar has turned the page and January is here. While there are many things happening in January, December was quite a month at Beth Israel. On December 13th, a day before Chanukah, we hosted Stephen Schwartz, and his Chanukah LEGO menorah. It was a perfect Saturday afternoon with over 150 people filling our Arden Social Hall. The LEGO Menorah was over eleven feet tall, and everyone made a block that supported the branches of the Menorah. Stephen brought over 100,000 LEGOs so families could choose colors and make their own designs. The Menorah was spectacular!

The Chanukah delicacies, latkes, jelly donuts, gelt, Mac and cheese and chicken nuggets were outstanding. We had an amazing grazing table designed and executed by Shara Gadomski. Our volunteers were wonderful from shopping, setting-up, food prep and clean-up.

Third and fourth graders in Ms. Felecia's Sunday School class presented a Chanukah play. Parents of students were invited to watch the play. The students were so excited and made costumes. A giant Todah to Ms. Felicia and her merry band of players.

Please mark your calendars for our annual Martin Luther King Friday night Shabbat service on January 16th. There will be students from local high schools presenting their award-winning essays. It is an inspiring night with a delicious Oneg following. Our littlest friends are invited to a Tu B'Shevat Slumber and Pizza party on January 21st at 5:30. Pajamas are encouraged for the children, and we will celebrate the Birthday of the Trees. There will be music, movement, stories, and a craft.

Everyone is welcome. Please invite your friends. The cost is $18 per family. Please remember to RSVP to me.

Stay warm and keep healthy!

Tu B'Shevat

Birthday of the Trees

What is Tu B'Shevat?

Tu B'Shevat is Jewish Arbor Day, the Jewish “birthday” of the trees. “Tu” is actually a number, but not the number “two.” It is an abbreviation for the Hebrew number 15. “Tu B'Shevat” simply means the 15th of the Hebrew month of Shevat.

Why is there a birthday for trees?

There are certain Jewish laws which tell us to leave fruit to fall on its own for the first three years, to dedicate (contribute) the fruit of the fourth year. But are you going to keep track of which day you planted which tree? So trees are like horses; they turn the next age together, on the same day, no matter when each one was planted.

How is Tu B'Shevat observed?

This changed over time. In the 16th century Jewish mystics in the city of Tzefat (Safed) developed a “seder” for the holiday, using different kinds of fruit. Modern Zionists in the early 20th century turned it into an occasion to plant trees, to “re-forest” the land. More recently it has become an occasion for general awareness of the environment, the importance of stewardship, and the new dangers we face from climate change we have caused.

When is Tu B'Shevat this year?

This year the holiday begins on Sunday night, February 1. We will touch on the themes of the holiday at Tot Shabbat with a Tu B'Shevat Tot Slumber Party (see next page) on January 21, as well as during Religious School on February 1.
