What is Scalp Micropigmentation? Micro Hair Tattooing.

Scalp Micropigmentation (SMP) is a non-surgical cosmetic tattooing procedure that involves the application of micro sized dots into the scalp to mimic the appearance of hair follicles. It is an effective solution for individuals dealing with hair loss, thinning hair, or conditions like alopecia, and can also be used to camouflage scars on the scalp.

SMP is suitable for both men and women and can be customized to match different skin tones and hair colors. When treatments are performed by qualified technicians the results are natural-looking.

Hairline reconstruction and the look of more hair throughout the scalp enhance the overall appearance and confidence of those experiencing hair loss.

Our treatments give the illusion of a fuller head of hair.

No surgeries make it a safe and a minimally invasive option for those dealing with hair loss.

NO PRESCRIPTIONS

Here's How We Do It

Scalp Micropigmentation (SMP) typically involves a three plus session approach to achieve natural, lasting results. In the first session, we create a foundational layer by applying a base of pigments to map out the hairline, and filling in all areas of hair loss. The second session adds density and depth, carefully layering pigments to build a fuller, more realistic look. In the third session, we fine tune details for symmetry and balance, ensuring a smooth, even look. This layering process allows the pigments to settle naturally between sessions, resulting in a full, seamless, and natural-looking scalp micropigmentation treatment.
