Gospel Reflection

John 9:1-41

As we did last week, we are reading today from the Gospel of John. In today's Gospel, the healing of the man born blind invites us to focus on the physical and spiritual aspects of sight and light. In the first part of today's Gospel, we hear Jesus' response to a prevalent belief of his time: that misfortune and disability were the result of sin. That belief is why Jesus is asked the question of whose sin caused the man's blindness—his own or his parents'. Jesus does not answer directly, but instead gives the question an entirely different dimension—through this man's disability, God's power will be made manifest. Jesus then heals the man.

The healing is controversial because Jesus heals on the Sabbath. The Pharisees, the religious authorities of Jesus' time, understood that the law of Moses forbade work (including healing) on the Sabbath. They also have trouble believing that Jesus performed a miracle. To determine whether the man was really born blind, the Pharisees question him and his parents. The man challenges the leaders of the synagogue about their assessment of the good that Jesus has done. In turn, they expel the man for questioning their judgment.

The final revelation and moment of enlightenment comes when the man born blind encounters Jesus again. Having heard the news of his expulsion, Jesus seeks out the man born blind and reveals himself to him as the Son of Man. In this moment, the man born blind shows himself to be a man of faith and worships Jesus. Jesus replies by identifying the irony of the experience of many who encounter Jesus: Those who are blind will now see, and those who think they now see will be found to be blind.

As in last week's Gospel about Jesus' encounter with the Samaritan woman, today's reading has many allusions to Baptism. The washing of the man in the pool of Siloam is a prototype for Christian Baptism. Through the man's encounter with Jesus, the man born blind is healed, his sight is restored, and his conversion to discipleship begins. The man born blind gradually comes to a greater understanding about who Jesus is and what it means to be his disciple, while the Pharisees (those who should see) are the ones who remain blind.

Reflexión del Evangelio

Juan 9,1-41

Como hicimos la semana pasada, hoy leemos el Evangelio de Juan. En el Evangelio de hoy, la curación del hombre ciego de nacimiento nos invita a centrarnos en los aspectos físicos y espirituales de la vista y la luz. En la primera parte del Evangelio de hoy, escuchamos la respuesta de Jesús a una creencia predominante en su época: que la desgracia y la discapacidad eran resultado del pecado. Esta creencia es la razón por la que se le pregunta a Jesús qué pecado causó la ceguera del hombre: si el suyo o el de sus padres. Jesús no responde directamente, sino que le da a la pregunta una dimensión completamente diferente: a través de la discapacidad de este hombre, se manifestará el poder de Dios. Jesús entonces lo sana.

La curación es controvertida porque Jesús sana en sábado. Los fariseos, las autoridades religiosas de la época de Jesús, entendían que la ley de Moisés prohibía trabajar (incluida la sanación) en sábado. También les cuesta creer que Jesús haya realizado un milagro. Para determinar si el hombre realmente nació ciego, los fariseos lo interrogan a él y a sus padres. El hombre cuestiona a los líderes de la sinagoga sobre su evaluación del bien que Jesús ha hecho. A su vez, lo expulsan por cuestionar su juicio.

La revelación final y el momento de iluminación llegan cuando el ciego de nacimiento se reencuentra con Jesús. Tras recibir la noticia de su expulsión, Jesús lo busca y se le revela como el Hijo del Hombre. En ese momento, el ciego de nacimiento se muestra como un hombre de fe y adora a Jesús. Jesús responde identificando la ironía de la experiencia de muchos que se encuentran con Jesús: Los que eran ciegos ahora verán, y los que creen ver ahora serán hallados ciegos.

Al igual que en el Evangelio de la semana pasada sobre el encuentro de Jesús con la samaritana, la lectura de hoy contiene muchas alusiones al Bautismo. El lavamiento del hombre en el estanque de Siloé es un prototipo del Bautismo cristiano. A través del encuentro con Jesús, el ciego de nacimiento es sanado, recupera la vista y comienza su conversión al discipulado. El hombre nacido ciego llega poco a poco a una mayor comprensión de quién es Jesús y lo que significa ser su discípulo, mientras que los fariseos (los que deberían ver) son los que permanecen ciegos.
