8,000 Mile Oil Changes a Bad Idea?

I hear this from consumers as well as mechanics.

Here is the inside of a car engine that was 27 years old with 240,000 miles, oil changes at 8,000.

This was almost all city driving. This was from our loaner car WITT 6. We serviced this car since it had 35,000 miles. It had no oil leaks and never needed oil added.

Our maintenance helps your engine last and prevents expensive leaks. Priceless.

Tip to Avoid Melting in the Heat

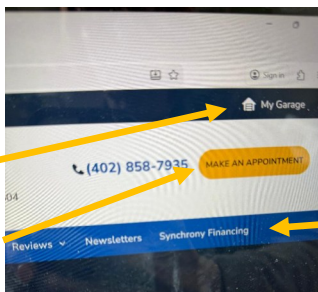

As you approach your car press the “unlock” button once to unlock it. (duh). Then press and hold it a second time. If you’re lucky, that will cause the windows to roll down and the sunroof to open, letting out the heat.

The interior of sun-baked cars can easily hit 140 degrees, like I’m telling you something. This works on many Honda cars.

Access Your Own Service History

What's the Best Selling Luxury Car?

According to Car and Driver magazine, this year's #8 Acura MDX—24,102, #7 Lexus TX—28,112, #6 Lexus NX—30,765, #2 BMW X5—41,554, #1 Lexus RX—59,904.

The RX outsold the BMW by 50%. Smart.

WARNING—Always fix or repair old people's cars instead of buying a new one. They know everything about their current car. There are too many things to learn on a new one and its far too distracting. Recently, Grandpa complained about his new car. "I put it in R and all I got was a video of people getting run over." The expiration dates of all our specials can be extended to the end of the year if you just ask. Only one special per visit. No, if you go out the door and come right back in that doesn't count as a second visit.

Answers to Quiz

1. False. The student who drives the car is the one who needs to make the appointment and bring in the car. Come with them to teach proper car care. The worst thing you can say is "I can't get the car away from them". They'll call you when its out of oil.
2. False. Parking in student lots is a contact sport. Nice cars suffer a lot of body damage. For some reason, the old beaters never get a scratch.
3. True. The difference between a close call and an accident can be very slight. Put on premium tires to give them the best advantages you can.
4. True. They can't drive and text or even eat because it takes 2 hands to drive. Their friends won't ask to borrow their car. Less likely for the car to be stolen or for them to be carjacked. Better safety, better security, plus the cars are cheaper to buy.

Finally, if they are a passenger in a stick shift car and something happens to the driver, they have the skill to drive to emergency care or get home.
