Closed Thanksgiving Day

Well, duh. We will be open other normal hours that week.

When to Not Take a Leak

to a mechanic. If you have an appointment to bring a car in for a leak and it's going to pour rain all day, call and reschedule. The wet bottoms of cars all look the same, whether it's oil, power steering fluid or rain water.

Choose a dry day if possible.

How Stuff Works

In order to properly repair any equipment its important to understand how it was designed. Once you understand how the engineers think, fixing it is easy.

Honda and Toyota designers are unlike other car makers, which is the reason we specialize. When the symptoms display serious "Check Engine" codes, the fix might be as simple as adding some engine oil.

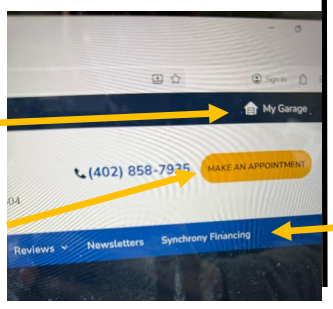

We fix your car for less because we get it. Just don't bring us a F-f-f-f-f-ford. We can't even say it.

How We Work

We let the techs decide what is the best order to work the group. Generally, cars needing problems solved will come in, be assessed and paperwork turned in to locate parts and prepare estimates. The car sits, then another car comes in and another. You may see 8 cars in process. This is why when we contact you we ask for timely responses. No car leaves the shop until the tech doing the work is satisfied its done right. This has increased production by 20% and reduced errors.

Car Quiz

1. T or F--The Heated Seat on your new Lexus or Toyota may not work unless you pay for a subscription.

2. T or F--A tire pressure light (TPMS) light that blinks may not indicate a low tire.

3. T or F--A car that suddenly starts misfiring and surging when turning a corner and sets a check engine light might just need a quart of oil.

4. T or F--Some cars actually surf the web on their own while sitting in your driveway.

5. T or F--The little slices in the tread of your tires are called sipes because they were invented by John F. Sipe.

What's the Deal with Buying Tires?

How hard could this be? Just get the best price and be sure to get free rotation.

There are cheap tires that won't get you out of a level parking lot in only 4 inches of snow. The only thing worse than a tire that wears out quickly is one that lasts forever that you hate.

A few considerations when selecting a tire:

Stopping distance when wet, traction in snow, traction on ice, road noise--is it quiet on the highway?, is the ride smooth, dry pavement handling, reliable in high heat and many more. The best tire is the one you love.

We Provide Tire Choices

We'll ask you questions to find what's important to you, then provide you with 3 best choices and let you choose. You will find the best tire for you.

Tire Sale

Not to be confused with a Fire Sale.

50 Wittbucks

Save 50 bucks when you buy 4 tires (not 2) and have us mount and balance them. Sale ends 12/4/26. You don't even have to read the Newsletter to get this one.

Yipes! Sipes!

Sipes are important for wet traction as well as snow and ice. The slices open up on braking and acceleration like fingernails on the pavement.

Cheap tires have very shallow sipes that wear off quickly. Premium tires have deep sipes that work better and last longer.

The jagged sipes on the left tire are for ice and snow. The smooth sipes on the right tire are better for rain. We'll help you choose the right sipes.

FINE PRINT WARNING--Who would have ever thought that all the answers to the Car Quiz would be true? Thankfully there is enough crazy stuff happening in the automotive world to keep our minds off less important things. This month's tire specials DO NOT include free flat repair. Don't be silly. They DO include free tire rotation with an annual maintenance. This is because we remove the tires in order to inspect and measure brakes. We get them back on the car most of the time. If you should hear a loud scraping noise when leaving, that may be a clue that we missed that step. Not really, we catch those.

Answers to Quiz

1--True. What seems to be the most ridiculous idea ever is really true. BMW, Lexus and others are actually floating the idea of having paid "subscriptions" for some accessories. Oh boy. This has to be evidence that there is no drug testing program in their think tank.

2--True. A blinking TPMS light usually indicates a fault in the system, not a problem with a tire. It might be a sensor, a computer or even the network. Time for a mechanic.

Lights, especially ones that flash, shouldn't be ignored. Either look it up or Google it. Its for your own safety or that of your wallet.

3--True. We just repaired these exact symptoms. There are gizmos inside the engine that require oil pressure to work. The oil level dropped so low that pressure was lost when oil sloshed on a corner. So pull your dipstick when you get a check engine light. Actually do it monthly.

4--True. A recent study found some makes of cars seeking out as many as 18 different websites. Your car might even have its own Facebook page.

While it sounds alarming, our phones are already tracking us. The difference is, we can turn off our phones.

5--True. Hokey as it sounds, John was trying to get his rubber soled shoes to grip better on wet work floors. The tire industry adopted it in the 1950s.

Save Time, Don't Be Late
