

LITTLE WOOD RANCH PRESERVE

OPEN IN GOOGLE MAPS

Located near Shoshone between Twin Falls and Sun Valley, Idaho , this preserve is an upland hunter's dream. Loaded with hundreds of acres of thick cover, rivers, creeks, canals, heavy brush filled ditch banks, tons of natural habitat, and food plots. You'll find pheasants galore along with chukar, doves, and California quail.

Directions from Sun Valley, Idaho (GOOGLE MAPS)

Head south on Highway 75 to Shoshone, Idaho. Keep south through town until you cross the railroad tracks and then take an immediate right turn on to highway 26 West. Go about a mile and half west on 26 and look for our sign or a small green highway sign on the right side of the road that says (120 WEST). Turn right on the dirt road and follow it to the end going west which runs parallel with the tracks. When you reach the end, you turn right and head north across the tracks. You will see the arch entrance that says WESTERN SPIRIT RANCHES.

Directions From Boise, Idaho (GOOGLE MAPS)

No address works on GPS, take exit 141 at Bliss and go through Gooding towards Shoshone on highway 26 for around 15 miles. About one mile from Shoshone there will be a 55 gallon orange drum off on your left side of road (North side of highway) and a green highway sign that says 120 west. Drive to end of dirt road going back to the west and take a right across tracks.