In Scripture Today

Matthew 20:1-16

Once again, Matthew balances his earlier emphasis on righteous living with the assurance of God's forgiveness. The allegory contradicts the commonplace religious idea that in the afterlife, heaven or hell will be assigned as deserved. In this allegory, God disrupts our notions of reward and punishment by surprising mercy. We receive this mercy already at the table.

Jonah 3:10—4:11

The conclusion of the short story of Jonah is chosen as a parallel to the allegory of the laborers in the vineyard. Like us, Jonah begrudges forgiveness for his enemies, and perhaps like us, he cares more about his own comfort than about the lives of 120,000 other people. Perhaps the reader can make clear the poignant irony that this brilliantly-written story intends.

Philippians 1:21-30

Today's excerpt from Philippians introduces the themes of the letter: joy in the faith and a call for unity. One connection with today's gospel is that only because of God's unending forgiveness for both sides of every quarrel can we accept one another and live in unity.
