Anna Prettyman practices in the Family Law practice group at Henningson & Snoxell. Her practice focuses on advising individuals and parents on family law issues such as divorce, legal separation, custody and parenting time issues, child support, spousal maintenance, restraining orders, antenuptial agreements, property division and valuation, business and self-employment issues, and more. With a career spanning two decades in legal strategy and advocacy, Anna offers a unique perspective that blends practical insight with strategic legal acumen.

Anna provides clients with sophisticated guidance on the above family law issues, and she offers trusted advice to help navigate the complexities of family life as it intersects with the legal world. Prior to joining Henningson & Snoxell, Anna served in the Minnesota Judicial Branch and the City of St. Paul Attorney's Office. She also managed her own law practice, securing favorable results in divorce trials, motions to address post decree issues, and appeals regarding jurisdiction.

Known for her collaborative approach and commitment to client centered solutions, Anna invests her time to ensure clients are heard and seen. She is certified as a Rule 114 Qualified Neutral and uses skillful negotiation to create agreements that incorporate everyone's interests. Anna is also devoted to service beyond her client work. For example, she provides pro bono counsel to pediatric cancer families and actively mentors a number of rising attorneys.
