The auxiliary trainer, István Szurkos in addition to various university courses — including a teaching diploma for preschool and primary school and a master's degree in early childhood studies — completed AMI training for ages 3–6 and 6–12, as well as additional training in Montessori pedagogy. He currently works at a children's house in Bern and is writing his dissertation on "Montessori and Gender."

István is president of the German-Swiss International Montessori Training Center and offers various workshops and lectures on Montessori education.

He sees Montessori as a universal educational method that can be successfully applied regardless of age, culture, or social background.
