

BROCKTON, MA. — Brockton rode the high off of four run innings in the second and seventh innings to take the team to an 11-9 victory over New York on Tuesday night at Campanelli Stadium.

“Overall, just an unbelievable game, probably one of the best wins we’ve had since we’ve been here the last couple of years,” Brockton Rox skipper Jerod Edmondson said. “Just [an] absolute battle from everybody. Everybody contributed, just an unbelievable effort. We got savages in there, we’re gonna bring it every single inning, every night.”

Brockton starting pitcher Bryan O'Donnell took a no-decision, pitching 2.2 innings, allowing six hits, five runs, four earned, while walking four batters and recording two strikeouts. Dylan Ryan recorded the win, improving to 4-0 in the season, pitching three shutout innings in relief, giving up a hit, and striking out five batters.

New York starting pitcher Mason Olson pitched a no-decision five innings, allowing eight hits, seven runs, five earned, walking two, and striking out seven batters. Joe Miceli recorded the loss, dropping to 4-1 in the campaign. He pitched 0.1 innings, allowing three hits, four earned runs, giving up a walk, and striking out a batter.

The Boulders got going early when they loaded the bases in the second for Ryan Vogel, who walked, forcing in a run. With two outs, Ryan McCoy hit a two-run single, extending their lead to 3-0. The Boulders added one more run in the inning due to an error by Olson, who was attempting to pick off the runner.

Tommy Kretzler responded quickly for the Rox when he delivered a RBI double to left field to cut the lead to 4-1. Trey Ciulla-Hall then capped it off as he hit a three-run home run to even up the score. 400 feet, and 104 off the bal for Ciulla-Hall.

“I’m seeing it well, trying to put a good swing on the ball,” said Ciulla-Hall. “I got tattooed back-to-back games, feels good. Whatever I can do to give the team a W.”

Jason Agresti extended his 15-game hitting streak with a lead-off double down the third base line in the bottom of the third. Fritz Genther then delivered a base hit as the Rox had runners at the corners, and Genther was out at second looking to advance. Jack Scanslon delivered an RBI single to give New York a 5-4 lead.

Evan Giordano led off the third inning with a solo home run for his fourth home run of the season. Austin White followed with an RBI single to put Brockton back ahead with the score 6-5.

New York had runners at the corners to start the fourth inning, and Alfredo Marte delivered an RBI single to even up the score at six runs apiece. Ryan McCoy scored on a wild pitch, and Isaac Bellony hit an RBI single, making the score 7-6 Boulders after four innings.

Tommy Kretzler led off the fifth inning with an opposite-field home run to cut the lead to one; his eighth home run of the season. Ryan McCoy quickly responded, leading off the sixth with a double, stealing third, and scoring on an RBI ground out by Alfredo Marte.

Brockton had the bases loaded with one out in the seventh inning when Austin White hit an RBI single. The bases were reloaded for Calero, who walked to force in a run, tying the game.

“Just felt good in the box today,” White said. “Even on my strikeouts, I felt like I got myself out. The pitchers didn’t get me out, so I just stayed locked in the whole game and got hits in the positions I needed to.”

Rosario then flew out to center field, allowing White to score from third base. Derek Bender followed with an RBI single, bringing the score to 11-9. That was all that Brockton needed from the offense. Three innings of scoreless work from Dillon Ryan followed by Mike McKenna getting save number 5 on the year.

The Brockton Rox will play the New York Boulders again tomorrow morning at 11:00 a.m. EST at Campanelli Stadium. For the second game of a three-game set.
