Airport Development Group Supports “Team Alice” Community Event Ahead of AFL Clash

As the owners and operators of Alice Springs Airport, Airport Development Group (ADG) is committed to supporting community events and initiatives that strengthen connection, wellbeing and opportunities across Central Australia.

ADG is proud to support the upcoming “Team Alice” community event in Alice Springs, bringing local families, young footballers and AFL heroes together ahead of the Melbourne Demons versus GWS Giants clash.

The free community event, to be held at Jim McConville Oval on Sunday 31 May from 10.30am to 1pm, has been created in response to the recent tragedy in Alice Springs, providing a positive and family-friendly opportunity for the community to come together in support, connection and celebration of sport.

Head of Airport Operations, Regional, Tony Schulz said supporting local communities was an important part of ADG’s long-term commitment to Central Australia.

“As the owners of Alice Springs Airport, Airport Development Group is committed to supporting community initiatives that create positive outcomes for the region,” Mr Schulz said.

“Sport has an incredible ability to unite communities, inspire young people and create positive shared experiences.”

“Following the recent tragedy in Alice Springs, it is important that organisations and community leaders come together to support opportunities that foster hope, resilience and connection.”

“Team Alice is about bringing families together, celebrating local young people and giving aspiring footballers the chance to meet some of their sporting heroes in a welcoming and inclusive environment.”

“We are proud to support events that strengthen community spirit and showcase the resilience and positivity of Alice Springs.”
