Academy Boulder is redefining what retirement living can look like. Since 1998, its three locally owned communities — Academy University Hill, Academy Mapleton Hill and Bella Vista — have combined exceptional care with beautiful settings and vibrant lifestyles. From gourmet dining and wellness classes to lush gardens and lively gatherings, life here feels both enriching and welcoming. "I think we won because we are so committed to giving our residents the best life possible and providing a meaningful and fun work environment for our staff," says Shirley Berg, community relations. The Academy's smaller scale makes it feel like family, where staff and residents truly know and support each other. With services spanning independent living, assisted living and memory care, the communities adapt to residents' needs while nurturing friendships and fun along the way. For more than 25 years, Academy Boulder has been helping people thrive at every stage of life.
