Why I'm Running

Our communities deserve better

I believe the current system is not working for everyone. I see problems in the 5th District's communities—whether it's schools that aren't fully funded, roads that need repair, small businesses that are struggling, or neighbors who feel unheard. By stepping up to lead, I can help bring new ideas, fresh energy, and accountability to local government.

As a former Naval Officer, I care about people, believe in service, and know that meaningful change requires leaders who listen and act. Instead of accepting "how it's always been," I want to build a better future for our communities.

Why I'm running as an Independent

My observation over the past 20 years is that many people, are disenchanted with the two-party system. Most party affiliated candidates "tow the party line" and fight to do what is best for the party. Political parties serve only to divide the people.

Let's put the MD 5th District on the map by being the only Independent district in the country. We think Independent because we are Independent!

My Priorities for the 5th District

Join me in putting people – not parties – first!

Together, we can write a new chapter for Maryland's 5th District.

Veterans: All veterans should want, need, and deserve VA benefits after sacrificing for our country.

Education: My goal is to establish mechanisms for funding for all college students in the district, and improve K-12 education.

Expand Affordable Healthcare and Care

Access: Support expanding community health centers and mobile clinics to increase preventive care access in underserved areas of the district.

Homelessness and Affordable Housing:

Advocate for increased funding for low-income housing tax credits and partnerships with nonprofits to expand transitional and permanent supportive housing.

Growing Our Economy:

Champion small business grants and technical support programs to grow local entrepreneurship, particularly in technology, clean energy, and advanced manufacturing.

Infrastructure and Commutes:

Secure federal and state funds to improve local roads and public transit connections, reducing commute times and expanding job access.

Environmental and Public

Health: Support clean water initiatives and green infrastructure projects to reduce flooding, improve air quality, and protect the Chesapeake Bay.

What other issues in Maryland's 5th District should I take to Washington. What else concerns you.
