The Abortion Industry's War on Women

Carol Everett

"I'm Carol Everett. I was on my way to making millions of dollars exploiting women through two abortion clinics operated in Texas. Our team of abortion providers embraced and profited from the deceptive emotional rhetoric proclaimed publically by the pro-choice advocates.

But we were the ones conducting a war on women and their preborn children. The blood flowed every day we used our weapons of mass destruction on women in those 'sometimes' sterile war rooms.

In 1973 the war on women went from back alleys to soundproof rooms. And still today, women die and their babies are exterminated. I eventually came to my senses and now travel around the country warning women and men about the lies of the abortion industry."

Abby Johnson

Abby Johnson has always had a fierce determination to help women in need. It was this desire that led Abby to both a career with Planned Parenthood, our nation's largest abortion provider in the abortion industry, and caused her to flee the organization and become an outspoken advocate for the pro-life movement. During her eight years with Planned Parenthood, Abby quickly rose in the organization's ranks and became a clinic director. She was increasingly disturbed by what she witnessed. Abortion was a product Planned Parenthood was selling, not an unfortunate necessity that they fought to decrease. Still, Abby loved the women that entered her clinic and her fellow workers. Despite a growing unrest within her, she stayed on and strove to serve women in crisis.

All of that changed on September 26, 2009, when Abby was asked to assist with an ultrasound-guided abortion. She watched in horror as a 13-week baby fought and ultimately lost its life at the hand of the abortionist. At that moment, the full realization of what abortion was and what she had dedicated her life to washed over Abby and a dramatic transformation took place. Desperate and confused, Abby sought help from a local pro-life group. She swore that she would begin to advocate for life in the womb and expose abortion for what it truly is.

What About Pregnancy From RAPE?

My name is Jennifer

I was raped while on a business trip and fought for my life to survive. I soon found out I was pregnant and experienced deep darkness and pain. Doctors and nurses told me to abort "it" and remove the reminder of the rape.

I scheduled an ultrasound and on the screen there wasn't an "it" but a flickering little innocent life. My son is a reminder of overcoming evil with good. You can hear my whole story on YouTube. https://youtu.be/EbSwpixZGuc

https://youtu.be/EbSwpixZGuc

My name is Pam

My abortion experience began many years ago when I was engaged to be married and one evening I was raped. Not long after, I found out that I was pregnant. I was devastated and emotionally distraught. I was so scared and I didn't want to have an abortion. I cried for days and was told I needed to hurry up and make a decision about how I would handle the situation. I was tormented by wondering if it was just tissue as the abortion industry and the world stated back then or if it was a real baby. I struggled, but rationalized my mind into aborting. However immediately after aborting, the very second they took the baby, I knew that it was a very big mistake, but it was too late. I now knew deep inside in my body and soul that it was something very sacred. My shattered heart told me it was a baby and not tissue. In the recovery room, I felt very empty, alone, frightened and an overwhelming sadness. Seventeen years later I know that the abortion was not rational. You see abortion wasn't the answer to my problem, but rather compounded it; I now had two traumas to deal with, the rape and dealing with the guilt and sorrow that I had killed my child. I will be silent no more.

For more stories of women who speak out against the notion that pregnancy from rape justifies aborting the baby, go to SilentNoMoreAwareness.org or www.RebeccaKiessling.com. You will also find out more on how these women found healing from their experiences.

My name is Lianna

When I was twelve years old I was abducted, raped, and became pregnant. No matter how many times I showered, I felt dirty and worthless and wanted to kill myself. I went to a doctor who told me that I did not have to live with the consequences of the rape, and that the baby would always remind me of what I went through. He told me it was my right to have an abortion.

I asked the doctor "If I have the abortion, will I forget the rape? Will I forget all the pain and suffering?"…and he said "No." So I thought "Why should I kill the baby, when it's not the baby's fault?" This baby was growing inside of me and is still my baby. So I didn't abort and gave birth to a baby girl, who when she was born, gave me hope and a reason to live.

As my daughter grew up she would thank me for giving her life and I realized that this little girl gave me my life back. Now she is twenty-two years old and is a wonderful woman. I have never seen my rapist through my daughter, and she has taught me that she is a different person, who had nothing to do with that terrible night.

I think that having an abortion after a rape is like a double rape to yourself. The first rape you have no control over, but the second act of abortion, you do have control over choosing life over killing somebody else.

My daughter has helped me be a better person and I can't imagine being without my daughter. She's part of me and we grew up together. My daughter has saved me. My whole testimony can be seen at www.rebeccakiessling.com

The Lee Ezell story

"As a young woman I was raped and became pregnant. The trauma continued when my alcoholic mother threw me out of our house after finding out I was pregnant. All my friends told me to get rid of a rapist's baby, but deep inside I knew an abortion kills an innocent child. I was carrying an innocent human being who had done nothing to deserve death. So I decided to carry the baby to term and adopt her out to a loving family. I knew in my soul that this was the right thing to do, though it would not be the convenient thing to do.

Twenty-one years later, I received a phone call from that precious life I had given up so long ago and thus began a great family reunion and adventure that would include grandchildren…for you see, that little girl I gave up for adoption would be the only child I would ever be able to birth. I'm so glad I did not give that little girl the death penalty for the crime done by the rapist." You can read the whole story in my book The Missing Piece.

When a woman gets pregnant from rape there are now two victims of rape. We must love them both.

"But What About..."

"Those graphic pictures?"

"The Pro-choice movement often treats with contempt the pro-lifer's practice of holding up to our faces their disturbing graphics...(But) how can we charge that it is vile and repulsive for pro-lifers to brandish vile and repulsive images if the images are real?...to insist that truth is in poor taste is the very height of hypocrisy. Besides, if these images are often the facts of the matter, and if we then claim that it is offensive for pro-choice women to be confronted with them, then we are making the judgment that women are too inherently weak to face a truth about which they have to make a grave decision. This view is unworthy of feminism."

Feminist Naomi Wolf, New Republic

"Overpopulation?"

While there is sufficient evidence against the claim of "overpopulation," for the sake of argument, let's assume there is an overpopulation problem in the world. How would it follow that killing pre-born children is a proper course of action to solve overpopulation? Would a society be justified in killing all people over, say 65, to make more room for the millennials trying to live? It is immoral to propose killing innocent human beings to solve problems in the world. Womb babies deserve better.

Check out www.overpopulationisamyth.com

"It's my body?"

It is misguided to believe that females or males have an exclusive right to do anything they want with their bodies. The laws of a civil society can and do restrict what we can do with our bodies when our actions harm another human being. And besides, a completely unique individual is living and growing safely inside a protected womb.

"Poverty?"

has always been a sad reality in society and with decades of legal abortion, poverty still exists for many reasons. Corrupt government and corrupt religions have played a major role in the existence of poverty. There is abundant opportunity to help those in poverty. Killing the children of those who are in poverty or might experience poverty is a barbaric suggestion.

The Challenge

"Men don't have a say?"

Child sacrifice (abortion) is a human life issue, not a man/woman issue. Little girls AND boys are equally destroyed during an abortion procedure.

"Abortion is womb-lynching"

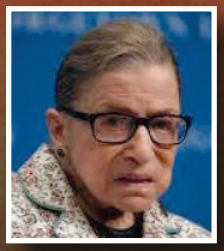

"From 1882 to 1968, 3,446 negroes were lynched in America. Abortionists snuff out the lives of 1,275 African-American children every day. This is womb-lynching; the implementation of Black genocide…and Planned Parenthood's founder started the 'Negro Project' to reduce the colored population." Dr. Johnny Hunter

"Population control is too important to be stopped by some right-wing pro-life types. Take the new influx of Hispanic immigrants. Their lack of respect for democracy and social order is frightening. I hope I can do something to stem that tide: I'd set up a clinic in Mexico for free if I could... and also when a sullen black woman of 17 or 18 can decide to have a baby and get welfare and food stamps and become a burden to all of us, it's time to stop. In parts of South Los Angeles, having babies for welfare is the only industry these people have."

We all somehow know deep down inside that we alone made a horrible decision and no coined phrase about choice and rights or the denial of biological and fetal facts can ever erase the truth. THE SUPREME COURT'S Verbal Gymnastics

Unlock the TRUTH

In 1973 the Supreme Court legalized abortion-on-demand with two decisions called Roe vs Wade and Doe vs Bolton. Abortion became legal throughout all nine months of pregnancy. Justice Harry Blackmun, who authored the decision, filled his writings with verbal gymnastics, misusing medical and legal terminology throughout his binding opinion.

So reckless and illogical were the writings and opinions of the Supreme Court on that day in 1973, there were those who supported the legalization of abortion, yet wrote very critical responses about the decision:

Edward Lazarus, a former Blackmun clerk, who "loved Roe's author like a grandfather, wrote: "As a matter of constitutional interpretation and judicial method, Roe borders on the indefensible... Justice Blackmun's opinion provides essentially no reasoning in support of its holding… Roe is a jurisprudential nightmare. Extending the unenumerated constitutional right to privacy to cover a woman's choice to have an abortion required an analytical leap with little support in history or precedent."

In a highly cited 1973 article in the Yale Law Journal, Professor John Hart Ely criticized Roe as a "decision which is not constitutional law and gives almost no sense of an obligation to do so."

Justice Blackmun's irresponsible suggestion in the decision that "we need not resolve the difficult question of when life begins... since there is no consensus," in order to decide on legalizing abortion, is answered by Dr. Bernard Nathanson, founder of the National Abortion Rights Action League, when he says, "Of course I was pleased with Justice Blackmun's abortion decisions... but I could not plumb the ethical or medical reasoning that had produced the conclusions. Our final victory had been propped up on a misreading of obstetrics, gynecology and embryology, and that's a dangerous way to win."

It is a straightforward medical and scientific conclusion that the union of a sperm and egg produce a living human being and that the only difference between you now, and you in the womb, is size, level of development, environment, and degree of dependency. This understanding should not be undermined by the misuse of words in order to create a social order that has denied the right to life of over 60 million of the smallest members of the human race since 1973.

"The morality of the 21st century will depend on how we respond to this simple but profound question: Does every human life have equal moral value simply and merely because it is human? Answer yes, and we have a chance of achieving universal human rights. Answer no, and it means that we are merely another animal in the forest."

We must speak up for those who cannot speak for themselves.

Overcoming Injustice Begins with You!

150,000 human beings die every day 365 days a year. Injustice seems inconsequential if when we die we just become worm food.

So that begs the question: "What happens after we die?"

The only two competing world views offer us their answers: evolution says we no longer exist and God says we will stand before Him either with a guilty conscience or a clean conscience.

Evolution says "dead and gone." God says, "It is appointed for all people to die and after this the judgment." (Hebrews 9:27)

So which one is correct?

Most people only think they know what God says happens after we die, but it is clear from the Scriptures that God calls each one of us to understand that we have violated His commandments and are not worthy to enter into Heaven. God says each of us has lied, lusted, used God's name in vain, and violated all the other commandments, and we are not worthy of going into Heaven. He declares, "For the wrath of God is revealed from Heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who suppress the truth in unrighteousness." (Romans 1:18)

We will be condemned after we die at the coming judgment unless…

…We understand and embrace what God says He did for us in order to avoid judgment and eternity without God after we die.

Here's what He said:

"But God demonstrates His own love toward us, in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us." (Romans 5:8)

That's right!

God the Son, Jesus Christ, left Heaven to pay the penalty for our rebellion towards Him, which is called sin. "For Christ also suffered once for sins, the just for the unjust, that He might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh but made alive by the Spirit." (1 Peter 3:18)

He died on the cross and came out of the grave three days later. This proved He is God and could offer us eternal life in Heaven after death. He says we must turn or repent from our sin, and place our trust in Jesus Christ by faith for the forgiveness of our sins, including the sin of abortion. That's "good news" or what the Bible calls the Gospel.

So call out to God for forgiveness and place your trust in Jesus Christ today.

"The law of truth was in his mouth, and injustice was not found on his lips. He walked with me in peace and justice, and turned many away from gross injustice." (Malachi 2:6)

THE POWER OF PICTURES

Pictures can be an essential element for expressing truth clearly.

Photography is a great tool for showing what is right or wrong. It is a witness for truth.

Pictures bear witness to reality and challenge us to protect those who cannot speak for themselves.

Photos are a tool for opening our minds through the sense of sight.
