Needs Statement

One hundred percent of Kentucky counties have a shortage of mental health care professionals (UK Prevention Research Center, 2021). According to the Community Health Needs Assessment (2020-2022) conducted by KentuckyOne and collaborators, the mental health provider ratio in Kentucky is 525:1, as opposed to the national average at 470:1. Additionally, Kentucky adults have a higher prevalence of anxiety and/or depressive disorders (37.4%) compared to the national average (32.3%) (Kaiser Family FDTN, 2023), a higher suicide rate than the national average, and according to the National Alliance on Mental Illness (2021) struggle to find the assistance they need to address their mental wellbeing.

Oldham County itself has a diverse population, with La Grange Elementary School considered 56% “economically disadvantaged” (Kyschoolreportcard) while the median income of the county is $115,000 (census.gov), potentially leading to the lower income population being overlooked in community resources.

Proposed Use of Funds (to remediate need)

By working within a major sector of Kentucky’s industry (equine services), we aim to enhance mental health service provision while making it accessible to those across socio-economic statuses through partnerships, funding, and fee-based workshops (using the workshops as a source of income). To this end, we are requesting $7,500 in funding from the Oldham County Fiscal Court to go toward client session sponsorships, both for individual and group sessions—for Oldham Countians demonstrating need.

Equine services fit in the local culture, but more than this, they are evidence-supported to provide resilience and empathy, improve relationships and improve mental wellness for populations suffering from PTSD, depression, anxiety, ADHD and many other issues. Though a still-emerging method of addressing mental health issues, equine-facilitated psychotherapy has shown effectiveness in the research, particularly with clients who have experienced trauma (whether veterans with PTSD or adolescents with Adverse Childhood Experiences, or ACEs).

Project Budget

Expenditures
Individual client sessions	$24,960	At $160/hr, will enable us to offer sliding scale fees to encourage ownership but also allow services to continue. At least 156 client sessions, or 3 scholarship clients/week. Includes host farm fees	These two categories are where OCFC funds would be applied, for Oldham County residents demonstrating financial need.
Group sponsorships	$4,000	At $125-$150 per wellness group (4 hours), this sponsorship allows persons from all socioeconomic statuses to participate (27 scholarships)
